TWENTY-SIXTH REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF
PUBLIC SCHOOLS
OF THE
CITY OF WASHINGTON,
1872-'73.

WASHINGTON CITY:
M'GILL & WITHEROW, PRINTERS AND STEREOTYPERS.
1873.

In Board of Trustees of Public Schools,

FEBRUARY 10, 1874.

Mr. HART offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Annual Report be authorized to have printed, for the use of the Governor, the Legislative Assembly, and the Board of Trustees, two thousand copies of the Annual Report of the Public Schools, 1872-'73.

A true copy.

Attest:

A. P. FARDON,
Secretary.

REPORT.

The Committee on the Annual Report have the honor to present herewith the Twenty-Sixth Report of the Board of Trustees of Public Schools of the City of Washington. Another year's work is done; and an examination of the full and complete report of the Superintendent, Mr. J. Ormond Wilson, and the accompanying statistical tables, will enable us to see what favorable results have been accomplished, and wherein we have fallen short. The Committee feel that they can conscientiously congratulate the Board that the improvements have been great; that advanced steps have been taken by the establishment of the Normal School, and by systematizing the important studies of Drawing and Music. In some other respects, however, and notably in the matter of the erection of School Buildings, and in securing better school accommodations, we fail to find any cause for gratulation. We heartily concur in the recommendations of the Superintendent on this subject, and especially in those that refer to the Second District, which is more sadly in need than any other. We agree with him, that the want of means to secure sufficient accommodations "does not imply neglect of duty on the part of the tax payers, or of the Government of the District." No tax is so cheerfully paid as that for school purposes; and no Government ever made more strenuous efforts to give the schools an adequate financial support than the Government of the District of Columbia has done.

For the school year ending August 31, 1873, the Board had under its control 133 school rooms, with 7,996 seats for pupils.

The total value of school property was $659,477. The number of regular teachers had increased from 130, in 1872, to 133. There were, besides, four sub-assistants and four special teachers, the amount paid for salaries being $106,774 21. The average number of pupils enrolled was 6,734 in 1872, and 6,890 in 1873.

The following table shows in round numbers the sums expended for school purposes each year since 1860 (including the cost of new buildings):

Year ending June 30, 1860...	$32,000	Year ending June 30, 1867...	$121,000
“ “ 1861...	26,000	“ “ 1868...	125,000
“ “ 1862 ..	44,000	“ “ 1869...	245,000
“ “ 1863...	50,000	“ “ 1870...	240,020
“ “ 1864...	68,000	“ “ 1871...	373,000
“ “ 1865...	82,000	“ “ 1872...	426,000
“ “ 1866...	76,000	“ “ 1873...	259,000

For further statistical details the Committee refer to the comprehensive report of the Superintendent, and to the tables appended; and in this connection we would express our hearty concurrence in all of his recommendations. A careful examination of the report will show that the schools have been economically managed; that every cent has been duly accounted for, and the utmost care exercised in the administration of the trusts committed to the Board.

After years of effort, we have at last obtained that essential to the completeness and efficiency of every public school system—a Normal School—which is now in full and successful operation, under the control of a highly efficient teacher, Miss Lucilla E. Smith. The object of the school is to take our own girls, those who graduate from our Public Schools and desire to become teachers, and to give them a proper training, in order to fit them for the responsible duties of educators of youth. The course of study is strictly professional, and is to be pursued with reference to the best methods of teaching.

As the school grows in years and experience, it will ultimately graduate pupils who will be, in a great degree, independent of text books, and whose knowledge will be of things themselves, rather than of any form of words from the most able authors. This has been the aim of the best German educators, and of Agassiz and his co-workers in our own land.

Our next step should be the organization of a High School, the necessity of which has been set forth in every annual report for years past, and we content ourselves here by a cordial endorsement of the views of the Superintendent on this important question.

The Course of Study, the subjects of Drawing, Vocal Music, and German, have been so exhaustively treated, that the Committee deem it unnecessary to do more than briefly refer to them. The subject of drawing having been carefully considered by the Board, a plan was adopted, by which the teachers of the schools should receive special training, thereby enabling them to impart instruction to their pupils in this branch of study. This matter was placed in charge of Mrs. Susan E. Fuller, a lady of fine artistic culture, whose skill as a teacher of drawing commended her to the Board. She has entered zealously upon her duties, with fair promise of abundant success. In teaching vocal music, the change referred to by the Superintendent is an indication of progress, and will doubtless produce the most satisfactory results; the pupils will eventually become thoroughly acquainted with the laws of harmony and vocalization, and fully conversant with whatever is valuable in this important source of culture. The absence of the study of the German language at the opening of the schools can be accounted for by peculiar circumstances, and it will come within the province of the Board to consider some plan by which this subject shall receive due attention.

The examinations of the year just closed were satisfactory to all concerned, and reflected great credit upon the teachers; but, on account of certain defects in the present system, it might be well for the Board to consider the question of making such a change in the oral examinations as shall meet all the requirements of the case, and awaken additional interest on the part of the public in these interesting exercises at the close of the school year.

While there has been marked improvement in attendance, the schools are still much retarded by irregularity in this respect. Our schools are now nearly all graded, and a graded school cannot succeed unless each member of the class keeps up in his studies. It is to be hoped that this subject will more forcibly engage the attention of the public, and that home duties will be so arranged as to enable pupils to be regular and punctual in their attendance.

To maintain good order is an ever present source of anxiety; to be able to govern a school, so that the kindly elements of the pupil's nature may be developed, and to avoid any manifestation of harshness, requires a high degree of moral and mental discipline on the part of the teacher; and it is earnestly desired that the time may speedily come in our Public Schools, when they shall be so governed. The spirit of the age is Christian, and the law of doing unto others as we would have others do unto us, is coming to be a rule of action, and violence as a reformatory measure is gradually passing away; and that aught but the law of kindness should prevail in the temples dedicated to education, is hard to be accounted for. It might therefore be worthy of consideration at this time, whether it would be prudent to make the discipline of our schools intellectual and moral—entirely free from any thing like physical force. "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good," is an element which accounts in a great measure for the world's progress; and might we not be willing to prove, by giving it a fair and conscientious trial, that the rod is not a necessity in the cause of education. The Trustees have always shown an interest in this matter, evidently anticipating the time when the school would become a place to be sought, and not a prison to be avoided, and the teacher a friend to be loved, and not a tyrant to be dreaded. As early as 1845, when the present school system was inaugurated, the rule on this subject was as follows, viz: "The teachers shall practice such discipline in their schools as would be exercised by a kind, judicious parent in his family, and shall avoid corporal punishment in all cases where in their judgment good order can be preserved by milder measures;"—a very careful rule and full of significance, and, in view of the condition of the Public School system nearly thirty years ago, it indicates a high degree of enlightenment on the subject, and is justly entitled to our most decided approbation.

The early Reports take up each school's record separately, and they show that the Trustees manifested an intelligent and continuous desire to discard corporal punishment in the discipline of the schools. The Report for 1848 states that "moral influences in the present improved systems of education are fast supplanting the discipline of the rod; and the Trustees are happy to state that but few instances of corporal punishment have occurred in the schools of the First District during the year." In the Report for 1856 we find the following language: "The teacher, without resorting to severity, finds no difficulty in the government of the school." "The discipline of the school is firmly but mildly maintained, corporal punishment being unknown." "The relations between the pupils and their respective teachers are characterized by becoming familiarity and respect, and a wholesome discipline is maintained by affection rather than fear." "The school is governed by moral suasion, as are most of our schools; and though corporal punishment is occasionally resorted to, it is generally in extreme cases, when all other modes of punishment have failed." In the Report for 1857 the following statements were made: "The teacher possesses that admirable faculty of eliciting the obedience of the children by affection, rather than the fear of punishment." "The order and discipline have improved greatly, the teacher having made a great change in the previous mode of governing the school, substituting firmness and uniformity of manner without harshness, for the rod; and though corporal punishment has been resorted to, it was less frequent than formerly."

The extracts here given might be readily increased. The present rule is as follows: "Mild and conciliatory discipline is enjoined on all teachers, and the avoidance of corporal punishment as far as may be, with a due regard to the necessity of obedience on the part of the pupil." It was doubtless anticipated that under this rule corporal punishment would entirely pass away, but such has not yet been the result, and we find that the cases in 1870-'71 reached 649. This use of the rod was so careless, to use no stronger term, that it called forth the following remonstrance from the Superintendent, who in his Report for that year, page 35, says: "It is the wish and determination of the Board to enforce a strict observance of its rule upon the subject, which requires of all teachers the avoidance of corporal punishment as far as may be, with a due regard to the necessity of obedience on the part of the pupil; and the monthly report of the teacher who has no case of corporal punishment to return gives the most satisfaction." The effect of this protest was a depression in the number of cases from 649 down to 327 in 1871-'72, and it was reasonably expected that this depression would continue, but such did not prove to be the case. Last year the number increased to 429, showing such a degree of vitality in the rod that the attention of the teachers is again called to the protest of the Superintendent; and your Committee express their earnest desire that the teachers shall make a special effort to carry forward the great cause committed to their care—the education of the children—combining discretion with firmness, and exercising their duties in the kindly spirit of the counsellor, the guide, and the friend. Your Committee do not deem it within their province to present any argument in behalf of an entire suppression of corporal punishment, the Board being fully competent to take such action as may be wise and prudent upon this vital subject.

The importance of education requires that every effort shall be made to give it its due share of our attention and our means, and in pushing forward this beloved cause we find that the necessity for Congressional aid was never more pressing than at this time; for it appears that, after having made extraordinary efforts to bring up our system of Public School education to the highest standard, we may fail unless we receive our portion of that fostering care Congress has so wisely exercised in behalf of the education of the people in every State and Territory of the Union, except the District of Columbia. This system is purely American; the children are taught their duties to their country and to themselves, and every effort is being made to establish at the National Capital a degree of perfection in the matter of Public School education that will correspond with other departments of national importance; and friends of education, both at home and abroad, may feel assured that we comprehend our responsibilities, and are working up to them.

The change in the organic law, by which the city charters were abrogated, brings the people of the District into more direct and intimate relations with Congress, and leads us to anticipate necessary recognition in all matters of public importance; and this feeling strengthens when we consider the fact that Congress has already exercised authority over our avenues, streets, and boundaries, through the medium of the Board of Public Works; it has taken cognizance of the sanitary condition of the people, by means of the Board of Health; the orphans of the soldiers and sailors who went forth from this District are tenderly cared for by appropriate legislation; the afflicted ones have their distressed condition ameliorated by requisite and proper appropriations for asylums for the deaf and dumb and insane, and those upon whom sudden calamity falls are shielded in our hospitals; whilst those who are more than orphans, our neglected youth, have bestowed upon them the protecting care of the Reform School; and those whose career is marred by crime, have the department of police and the courts provided for them. In fact every element of social life has justly received its due consideration; and hence we feel that surely Congress will not turn away from extending that aid absolutely demanded by the necessities of the people to enable them to educate their children. The Committee suggest that the gravity of the subject entitles it to the most careful consideration, and trust that a representation may be made so clear and comprehensive that Congress will understand just what we need.

The present and future interests of the people may warrant the making of such a change in the fundamental law upon which our system is based, as is indicated by the Superintendent in his report for the present year, by which a Board of Education, created by Congress and sustained by judicious appropriations, in addition to the generous co-operation of the people, shall take charge of the whole matter. This will doubtless receive from the Committee on Legislation that thoroughness of treatment which will not only cover the whole case, but lead to a successful issue.

The Austrian authorities having expressed a desire that the American School System should be represented at the great Exposition which was held in Vienna in 1873, the Board determined that Washington should participate in any demonstration that might be made. A committee having been appointed to attend to the matter, they had prepared and sent to Vienna an Educational Chart; photographs of the most prominent Public School Buildings; drawings, showing in detail the plans of the buildings; a model of the Franklin School Building; a case containing specimens of the penmanship in all the grades of schools, &c.

The chart contained matter of detail which ought to be preserved in our school records, as showing the details of the educational system at the time it was prepared.

It showed—

All the correspondents of American newspapers had much to say of the American educational exhibit, which was, in some respects, superior to that of any other country. General Eaton, the Commissioner of Education, who was in Vienna, says he was everywhere met with requests for American educational statistics, and plans and photographs of school buildings. The model of the Franklin Building was one of the special attractions, and educators from different parts of Europe made drawings of its exterior, and when permission was given to take the model apart, great interest was manifested in examining the details of its arrangements, which were noted and commended and compared with the photographic plans. The chart, the plans and photographs of the Seaton, Wallach, Jefferson, and other buildings were also critically examined, and the result was that to Washington was awarded the "Medal for Progress" in education and school architecture. The awards and prizes were classified in the following order: first, grand diplomas of honor; second, medals for progress; third, medals for merit; fourth, medals for fine arts; fifth, medals for good taste; sixth, medals for co-operators; and, seventh, diplomas of merit, or honorable mention. It will thus be observed, that Washington attained a very high rank, and received one of the highest prizes, a circumstance in which no one at all interested in the progress of our schools can fail to feel a just pride.

Looking over the whole field, we are convinced that the last school year furnishes evidence of growth in the right direction. Our schools are steadily and permanently improving, and they offer alike to rich and poor the opportunities of a good education. It is not claimed that all the favorable results have been realized that the system is capable of producing. In some instances, mistakes may have been made, but all connected with the schools have, we believe, endeavored to make them more and more efficient and popular; and that the community appreciates our labors is shown by the great increase in the number of pupils at the beginning of the present school year. If education is ever to be made universal, it must be in a great degree through the Public School system; and that it should be universal, the highest and best interests of the country demand. To do our part toward the expansion of this idea of universal education, we must have better school accommodations, and must secure the best educational talent that can be found. We cannot more appropriately close this report than by quoting as follows from an article on universal education, recently published by Ray Palmer, D. D. :

“It is coming to be more and more clearly seen that the prosecution of the work of extending education to the whole people is urged by the highest considerations. Political economy demands that it be done. The power of each citizen to benefit the whole is enhanced tenfold by education. It will ordinarily be directly proportioned to his right discipline and knowledge. Philanthropy equally demands that it be done. The coarseness, the depravity, the vice and wretchedness that characterize such multitudes in our towns and cities will only yield to intellectual and moral culture that shall reach them all. Patriotism demands that it be done. It is only by fusing together the elements supplied by the immigration from so many countries that an American people, in a good degree homogeneous in character, possessed by a common spirit, filled with similar aspirations, and ready to co-operate in all that may advance the true prosperity and glory of their country, can be formed. Christianity demands that it be done. She has made known the inestimable worth of individual man, and has asserted the obligation of the rich, of those who make and those who administer the laws, and of the churches and the ministers of religion, to recognize in each fellow-man a brother, and to do whatever wisdom and love combined can do to elevate and bless those who are born to few advantages. We know of nothing to which the best gifts of genius and the highest intellectual and moral culture can more worthily be consecrated than this truly noble work of bringing on, as speedily as possible, the day when popular education shall have been made literally universal. Every educator, every statesman, every man of wealth and personal influence, every educated young man or woman, may well count it an object worthy of the best ambition to help forward a work on which, to so great an extent, depends the future well being, not of our own country alone, but of the whole human race."

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS.

I deeply regret that I am unable to report any progress in the erection of school buildings during the past year, although a sufficient reason for the failure is to be found in the unprecedented expenditures for city improvements in other directions. But few changes in the accommodations for the schools have been made, and, for the most part, necessity rather than choice prompted these.

In the First School District a portion of the hall in the Franklin Building has been partitioned off, and is now occupied by an additional school. The light, ventilation, and heating of this room are good; and the education of seventy pupils, who could not otherwise have been admitted to school, is of greater consequence than the general uses for which the hall was intended.

In the Second School District, the four schools formerly located in a frame building on Ninth street, between P and Q streets, have been removed to the second story of Grace M. E. Church, on the corner of Ninth and S streets northwest. The rooms now occupied are decidedly better than those abandoned, although not quite so conveniently situated. The removal of the buildings on Judiciary Square having been ordered, to make way for the improvements of that public reservation, the four schools located in them were forced to find quarters elsewhere. Two of them are now in the Metzertott building, on Pennsylvania avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest, and two are in the second story of a building on Pennsylvania avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest. These schools should be removed from their present locations as soon as more suitable ones can be procured. A room has also been rented in the Congregational Church, on the corner of Tenth and G streets northwest, for an additional school in this district.

In the Third School District, the very inconvenient rooms in the second story of a dwelling-house on Maryland avenue, between First and Second streets southwest, have been given up, and the school that occupied them has been removed to the basement of New Jerusalem Church, on North Capitol street, between B and C streets. The latter place is a much better location for the school, and the room, having been refitted recently, is now well adapted to the purpose. The old brick building on the corner of Fifth and B streets northeast has been abandoned, and the two schools that have heretofore occupied it have been removed to a new frame building on A street, between Seventh and Eighth streets northeast. At the request of the trustees, this building was erected for the schools by Councilman Gulick, from whom it is rented.

In the Fourth School District no changes were required. The rooms in the Jefferson Building, set apart for schools of the lowest grade, are now crowded with pupils, and by another year one or two additional rooms will be needed. To meet this exigency, a small Primary School building should be provided in a location that will accommodate the younger pupils residing in the northeastern part of this district.

The time will soon come when all the schools of the four lower grades must be removed from our large school buildings to make room for the higher grades. These buildings were originally designed for the exclusive use of the latter, and the occupancy of some of the rooms by the lower grades was permitted as a matter of present convenience, and intended to be temporary. Buildings, smaller and less expensive in their construction, but not less commodious, must be erected specially for Primary and Secondary Schools.

The following table shows the extent of accommodation and the value of the property belonging to the white public schools of the city :

The increase of value shown above, $174,052, in fact belongs to the year 1871-'72, but was not reported in time to be included in the table for that year. It will be observed that although the table shows an increase of 18 rooms "owned" and a decrease of 15 rooms "rented," yet more than twenty-seven per cent. of our school rooms are still rented. These in most cases must be pronounced unsuitable, while their annual rent bills add about $12,000 to the incidental expenses of the schools.

The efficiency of our schools is now seriously impaired by the inadequacy of school accommodations, and some way should be devised at once to supply this great want. Three large buildings, with ten or twelve rooms each—one on Capitol Hill, one in the vicinity of Judiciary Square, and one in the western part of the city—and two or three smaller buildings of six rooms each, are all greatly needed to accommodate the white children of the city who now seek an education in the Public Schools.

The demand for a building in the vicinity of Judiciary Square, for the girls of the Second School District, is by far the most pressing. I stated the claims of this district in my last report, and urged the necessity for immediate action on the part of the Legislative Assembly; the Governor called attention to the subject in his annual message; and the Trustees of the district personally urged the wants of their schools upon the attention of the legislators; but, notwithstanding all these representations, no effort was made to grant relief. It will be seen from the foregoing table that the Second School District, comprising the old Third and Fourth Wards of the city, although far exceeding any other in population and in the amount of school taxes paid annually, has school property amounting to only $85,700. Here six or eight hundred girls, constituting some of our best schools, receive their instruction in such tenements as the Trustees are able to rent from time to time in a densely populated portion of the city. The statement of these facts ought to give assurance that a good school building will be erected in this district without further delay.

ATTENDANCE.

Our annual tables of school statistics would be more satisfactory if the results of a school census taken at the time were incorporated in them. In the absence of this, we are obliged to use the figures of the United States Census of 1870, which give us 17,403 white children between the ages of 6 and 17 years inclusive. Therefore, wherever percentages based upon these figures are given in this report, due allowance must be made for the increase in the number since that date.

The following table for 1872-'73 shows the whole number of pupils enrolled; the average number enrolled; the average number in daily attendance in each of the grades established by law; the number of regular teachers, male and female, employed; and the average number of pupils assigned to each teacher:

Comparing the above with the corresponding table given in the last report, the following increase is found: In the the whole number of pupils enrolled, 171; in the average number of pupils enrolled, 156; and in the average daily attendance, 186. Fifty-one and three-hundredths per cent. of the whole school population, or 8,935 pupils, were enrolled in the Public Schools. The average number of pupils assigned to each teacher was 52, the same as for the previous year.

The U. S. Commissioner of Education, to whom we are indebted for many favors, has again furnished us the statistics of the private schools of the District of Columbia, and they are to be found in Table XVIII, appended to this report. The whole number of white pupils in all the private schools of the city was 5,414. The table referred to, with the explanatory notes accompanying it, gives quite full information concerning this class of schools.

The attendance in the Public Schools was lessened to a considerable extent by small-pox, which prevailed in certain parts of the city from October to February inclusive. Its effect upon the school attendance is very clearly indicated in the following table, which gives the aggregate number of pupils on the rolls on the last school day of each month, the average number for each teacher, and the percentage of attendance based upon the average number enrolled:

The percentage of attendance, based upon the average number enrolled, for 1871-'72, was 92.5, and for 1872-73, was 93: a gain of one half of one per cent. in favor of the latter year.

The increase in attendance thus far during the present year is without a parallel. There were enrolled in all the schools September 30, 1872, 7,003 pupils, and September 30, 1873, 7,975, making an increase of 972 pupils. Additional school-rooms to accommodate these pupils could not be obtained, and the Board did not have funds sufficient to justify a corresponding increase in the number of teachers. Only one teacher was added to the corps, and the school-rooms were filled to their utmost capacity, so that the average number of pupils for each teacher was nearly 60. In two instances half-day schools have been organized. These schools belong to the lowest grade. One class of pupils has a session in the forenoon from 9 to 12 o'clock, and another in the afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock, both classes being instructed by the same teacher. Sufficient time has not yet elapsed to warrant the expression of an opinion upon the merits of the half-time schools which we have been compelled to try; but the experiment is not new. Dr. Edwin Chadwick, a distinguished educationist of London, has spoken and written quite extensively upon the subject, and he believes that the vexed problem of educating the poorer classes in large cities can be fully solved in no other way. The plan has been tried with success in London and other European cities. These half-time schools in the cases referred to were established specially for the benefit of a class of children compelled by poverty to work at least one half of each day to procure subsistence. The system has had something of a trial in this country, but with a different class of children, and for a different reason—the lack of a sufficient number of school-rooms. For this reason, in Chicago, very many of the school buildings did double duty during the past year; and Superintendent Pickard, in his recent report, makes the following statement: “In the majority of cases the half-day system has not at all interfered with the progress of pupils. This is specially true in districts where the parents find time to give to the care of their children during the half day they are out of school.” It is generally thought that the children in the lower grades ought not to spend more than three or at the most four hours daily in school, and it is quite possible that out of these half-day experiments some new system may be developed that will be more economical than the present one, and equally or more satisfactory in all other respects. Our present and prospective want of school accommodations and funds makes this subject worthy of the most considerate attention.

The table shows that there were 6,673 pupils in school at that date, 3,268 boys and 3,405 girls: 137 more girls than boys. The best month of attendance was October, when the number on the roll at the end of the month was 7,077. The falling off in attendance towards the close of the school year, occasioned by leaving the city, the oppressive heat of the early summer in this latitude, and the closing examinations, was less than usual. Lists of the names of all the pupils, showing the grades of which they had completed the studies, and the grades to which they were to be assigned at the commencement of the next school year, were made out in duplicate by the several teachers, one copy of which in each case was sent to this office and the other was retained in the office of the Sub-Board of the district in which the respective schools were situated. These lists greatly facilitated the speedy reorganization of the schools in September. They furnished a guide to the Trustees, by whom most of the work of making the promotions and transfers at the beginning of the school year is necessarily done.

The division of our elementary course of instruction into eight distinct grades, the work of each to be completed in one year, has done much to promote the efficiency and systematic progress of the schools, and thus far appears to be the best arrangement that can be made. It is, however, apparent that a subdivision of these grades will be advisable at an early day, so that the work of each will require but half of a school year; and the pupil who fails to accomplish it satisfactorily will have to fall back only a half year instead of a whole one. All strictly graded school systems lack flexibility or adaptation to individual requirements; but the change suggested would somewhat lessen this defect in ours.

At the opening of the schools in September last, one additional school was organized, making a total of 134; and the following table shows the number and per cent. of boys and girls enrolled in each grade on the last day of that month:

Although the law provides for only eight teachers of the Fifth Grade, or Third Intermediate Schools, it was necessary to increase the number, as 768 pupils were found qualified for promotion or admission to this grade. Six additional classes, three of them making full schools, were therefore formed; and teachers appointed to fill places in the Secondary grades, and receiving only the lower salaries allowed by law to lower grades, were assigned to these schools. If the Trustees had the power to fix the salaries of teachers, as they should have, this unjust discrimination in the salaries of equally meritorious teachers employed in the same grade, and performing precisely similar duties, would not be made. Of the 134 schools, 102 commenced the year with only one class, or pupils of a single grade, and 32 had two classes.

TEACHERS.

During the past year the number of changes in the corps of teachers was greater than usual. These may be classified as follows: Resigned, 16; died, 1; retired, 4; total, 21. The Committee on Teachers held four examinations, at which 121 candidates for appointment or promotion presented themselves. Certificates were issued to those who passed successfully, as follows: Primary, 36; Secondary, 18; Intermediate, 5; Grammar, 0; total, 59. Upon my recommendation, the increase of salary authorized by law to be paid to those teachers of Primary Schools who have furnished satisfactory proof of successful experience, was granted by the Board to the following teachers: Miss Frances E. Jullien, Miss Maggie Walsh, Miss Martha E. Armistead, Miss Ellen E. Haliday, Miss Laura M. Bland, and Miss Margaret E. A. Sheck.

The new course advanced the old limits in some of the studies and introduced some new elements, which imposed additional labor upon the teachers. The statement that they met all of its requirements in the most satisfactory manner is due to them. The year's work is the best that our schools have ever done. The general desire for professional improvement was most commendable. During the year five sessions of the Teachers' Institute were held. Two of these sessions were taken up with general instructions relating to the new course of study. The discussion of the following subjects occupied the other sessions: "Teaching Language," by the Hon. B. G. Northrop; "Drawing," by Mrs. Susan E. Fuller; and "Teaching Physics in Public Schools," by Prof. C. L. Hotze. The teachers attended also a course of six lectures on "Light," given at Lincoln Hall, by Prof. John Tyndall, of London, the tickets for their use having been purchased by the Board. The usual Normal Class in Penmanship was attended by thirty-six teachers. Immediately following Mrs. Fuller's lecture before the Teachers' Institute, twenty-six teachers formed themselves into a class in drawing under her tuition, and they received a course of twenty lessons.

The table below exhibits some interesting facts concerning the place of education and length of service, reported by the teachers in September last:

At the time the table was prepared, there were 134 regular and 8 special teachers and 1 Normal School teacher, making a total of 143 teachers. Of this number 7 were males, and 136 were females; 97 were educated in the Public Schools of Washington, and only 7 were educated in Normal Schools;

13 had not taught before, and the average period of service for each teacher was 6.2 years.

NORMAL SCHOOL.

For several years past the Trustees of the Public Schools have appreciated to some extent the value of a professional education for teachers. At various times a number of graduates from the normal and training schools of New England have been appointed teachers in our schools, and they have given practical evidence of the worth of such an education. The subject has frequently been discussed, and on more than one occasion the Board has asked for authority to establish a Normal School as a part of our system. This request was granted by an act of the Legislative Assembly, approved June 23, 1873, which will be found in full in the appendix; and the Trustees were fully authorized to establish a Normal School, for the purpose of specially preparing for their work young ladies educated in our own schools, and desiring to become teachers in the same. The duty of organizing this school was intrusted to a special committee of the Board, consisting of Trustees Harris, Randolph, French, Champlin, and the Superintendent, who prepared and submitted a plan which was approved and adopted by the Board. Miss Lucilla E. Smith, a graduate of the State Normal School at Farmington, Maine, and a teacher of several years' successful experience in our own city and elsewhere, was appointed principal teacher, and on the 1st of September last the school was opened with twenty pupils. This number is large enough for the present organization, which does not look to anything beyond supplying our own schools with trained teachers. The school is now placed permanently in charge of a standing committee of the Board—The Committee on Normal School and Teachers—and the following regulations and course of study have been prescribed for it:

I. The number of pupils shall be limited to twenty.

II. Each candidate must have been a pupil of the Female Grammar department of the Public Schools of Washington; must be not less than seventeen years of age; and before she is admitted must pass an examination, to be conducted by the Committee on Normal School and Teachers, equivalent to that upon which a Primary certificate is issued.

III. An annual examination of candidates shall be held in the month of June; and the committee shall issue tickets of admission to those found qualified, not exceeding twenty in number, commencing with the one who stands highest in scholarship, and continuing in the order of their rank.

IV. Each candidate, before she is admitted to the school, shall be required to sign the following pledge: "I, the subscriber, desire to enter the Normal School of Washington for the sole purpose of better preparing myself for the business of teaching; and I declare it to be my intention to continue in said school until I have completed the prescribed course of study, and then to devote myself to the work of teaching in the Public Schools of said city for a period of at least two years. In witness whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name."

V. The course of study shall be strictly professional, and be limited to one year, which shall be divided into four terms; and at the close of each term an examination shall be held, under the supervision of the committee in charge of the school.

VI. All text-books, books of reference, maps, charts, apparatus, &c., used by the school, shall be furnished by the Board.

VII. Each graduate shall receive a certificate, on which shall be stated the standing of the recipient in each of the several subjects embraced in the course of study, and this certificate shall be equivalent to a Primary certificate. Graduates from the Normal School, who have taught in the Public Schools of Washington one year, and given satisfactory evidence of their ability to govern and conduct a school, shall be entitled to receive diplomas, which shall be equivalent to Intermediate certificates.

VIII. The studies shall be pursued with special reference to the best methods of teaching, and shall be as follows:

The female teachers of the Public Schools of this city now constitute ninety-five per cent of the entire corps; and the demand for male teachers is, therefore, so slight that no necessity exists for any provision for their education in the Normal School. Twenty young ladies, not less than seventeen years of age, and with scholastic attainments sufficient to qualify them to teach, are to be admitted annually, and to receive a strictly professional course of instruction for one year; and it is expressly provided by law, "that the graduates of this school shall have preference in all cases when appointments of teachers for the Public Schools are to be made." The average number of new teachers required annually during the past three years has been from fifteen to twenty, and if the Normal School be supported liberally, and conducted with efficiency, it will, without doubt, supply an adequate number of well-qualified teachers to meet the future demands of our schools. I believe that the providing of this nursery of teachers will prove to be a most important step in our progress, and that its future history will not disappoint the expectations of its warmest friends.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE SYSTEM.

From the year 1845, down to 1869, the entire management and supervision of the Public Schools were confided to a Board of twelve Trustees, who received no compensation for their services. At the last named date, the office of Superintendent was created, and it was made the duty of this officer to exercise a general supervision over all the schools, and to see that the rules and regulations of the Board were carried out. In 1871, shortly after the new District Government went into operation, the number of Trustees was increased to twenty. But whatever number of members may hereafter constitute the Board, we have now reached a point in the progress of our system, when certain duties that have hitherto been performed by the Trustees, should be transferred to officers appointed for their special fitness for the work, and paid for their services. With 8,000 pupils on our rolls, it should not be expected that Trustees, serving the public gratuitously, will give the time daily required to attend to the many details of school business—such as admitting and transferring pupils, attending to cases of discipline referred by teachers, furnishing in detail the necessary supplies, examining or superintending the examination of schools—in short, to the constant daily supervision required by 134 different schools or classes scattered over a wide extent of territory. Many of these duties in other cities are performed by principal teachers, and it is no longer possible to have them attended to here, as the best interests of the schools require, unless a similar plan is adopted. This work demands not only a large amount of time, but also professional skill and experience.

As the first step towards remedying this serious defect in our present system, I think that an assistant should be given to the Principal of the Male Grammar School, in each of the four school districts, and that the Principals should be required to teach not more than two or three hours each day, and to devote the remaining time of the school sessions to the performance of the duties mentioned above. An act of the City Councils, approved January 22, 1870, authorized the appointment of assistants; but the salary fixed, $800 per annum each, will not pay for the services of teachers competent to fill the positions. In fact, the salary of the Principals as well as that of the assistants ought to be increased.

The cost of supplies—such as books, pens, ink, stationery, and house furnishing articles—for the schools, now amounts to several thousand dollars each year, and these articles should all be received at one central office, and thence be distributed to the schools. They are usually furnished by contract; and in the way suggested they can be inspected properly, and such an account of the articles received and distributed can be kept as will tend to secure due economy in their use. I think, also, that an arrangement might be made advantageously by which a mechanic of some versatility of skill could be regularly employed by the Board, to attend to all the repairs and improvements required for the school-rooms and buildings of the city. The calls for services of the kind alluded to are quite constant throughout the year, and they would be attended to with greater promptness and less expense by a man employed specially for the purpose.

The whole number of cases of tardiness was 5,113, making twenty-two hundredths of one per cent. This is 1,764 cases less than the number for last year. Each month had an average of 3,455 pupils present every session, and 724 pupils were not once absent during the entire year. The number suspended was 325, which is 276 less than the number for the previous year; and the number dismissed was 173, which is 124 less than the number for the previous year. The number of cases of corporal punishment was 429, which is 62 more than the number for the previous year. These cases were distributed as follows: In the Third District, 54 cases; in the Second District, 56 cases; in the Fourth District, 130 cases; in the First District, 189 cases. Of 133 schools, there were 69 in which there was no corporal punishment, and the 64 in which it was resorted to were for the most part boys' schools.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The course of study which was put on trial at the beginning of last year has given general satisfaction. In one half of the schools, the lower grades, I think that the work performed was fully a third more than that of any previous year, and, moreover, was greatly improved in quality. During the spring months I made a critical examination of all the schools of the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Grades, from which I was able to judge accurately of the amount and character of the work done under the new course of study. In these grades, simple lessons in natural science and language lessons had been added to the course of instruction, and it was plainly evident that these new elements had infused fresh life and vigor into the whole course. The mental discipline received from the exercises in these studies had greatly aided the pupils in mastering the studies of the old course: the reading, spelling, writing, and arithmetic. The instances were very rare in which the schools that excelled in the former did not excel also in the latter. The teachers, with few exceptions, had carried out the programme laid down for them, and freely expressed their approval of the change that had been made. While the instruction in the new studies had been set down as "oral," Hart's "First Lessons in Composition" and the three parts of Hooker's "Child's Book of Nature" had been named as guides. The teachers had been furnished with these books, and the pupils were advised to purchase them, although they were not prescribed as text-books. A large number procured the books, and thus contributed to the success of the undertaking. I think there is but little oral teaching that does not require to be re-enforced by the use of a good text-book on the part of the pupil.

The instruction on the map of our own city, given in the Second Grade, was made a very pleasant and useful exercise; and many of the little pupils were so well posted, that they could have imparted information concerning the topography of the National Capital, and its varied objects of interest, to some of the "oldest inhabitants."

The success met with in teaching the formation of the Arabic figures to the pupils of the same grade, was a marked improvement upon the results heretofore attained. Through the courtesy of Mr. H. C. Spencer, one of the authors of the Spencerian System of Penmanship, the teachers were furnished with cards containing the ten figures, arranged systematically for teaching, with a simple and ingenious analysis, that at once suggested a correct method of instruction. The arrangement was as follows:

While the lower four grades of the schools, without doubt, have received greater benefit than the upper, from the revision of the course of study, the latter have been improved to some extent, and will be still more so, as classes are received by promotion from below. But little was done in the upper grades with the prescribed oral course of lessons in natural science. The failure may be attributed to the fact that no text-book was furnished as a guide, and the teachers were unprepared for the task assigned to them. Toward the close of the year, we were favored with a visit from Professor C. L. Hotze, of Cleveland, the author of an excellent little elementary work on physics, and availed ourselves of his kindly proffered services, in giving the teachers some instruction on his methods of teaching this subject in elementary schools. On four afternoons he met all the teachers of the Sixth and Seventh Grades in one of their school-rooms, and on each occasion he conducted the pupils of the school through an hour's exercise in this study. These few meetings were productive of much good, as the instruction received by the teachers was objective in its character, and was replete with valuable suggestions of a practical nature.

Upon the recommendation of the Committee on Text-books, a change has been made in the natural science lessons prescribed for the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Grades. Lessons in physiology are now assigned to the Fifth Grade, and an elementary course in physics—the topics having been taken from and arranged according to Hotze's "First Lessons in Physics"—is assigned to the Sixth and Seventh Grades. The text-book named above has been adopted as a guide, and furnished to teachers. Many of the pupils in these grades have voluntarily purchased copies for their own use. I am confident that, under the new arrangement, the teaching of natural science in these grades will be as satisfactory during the present year as it was in the lower ones last year.

A slight change was also made in the limits fixed in intellectual arithmetic. These were increased so as to embrace the same topics that had been prescribed in the practical, with the view of enabling the teacher to make each mental exercise a preparatory step to a written one upon the same topic. These were the only changes of note which it was thought necessary to make in the course of study at the beginning of the present school year.

No definite course of study has been adopted for the Ninth Grade. The additional studies and text-books are designated, and but little more than this can be done until the pupils of this grade are brought together in a High School.

The following table gives the number of pupils pursuing each of the studies prescribed for the Advanced Course.

The figures above show the necessity for a High School to be urgent, and constantly increasing. A table given in another part of this report, in connection with the discussion of the "classification of pupils," shows that there were 132 pupils, 56 boys and 76 girls, belonging to the Advanced Course, or Ninth Grade, at the close of the last year; and at the commencement of the present year there were in the same grade 211 pupils, 79 boys and 132 girls. These pupils now constitute the highest classes in the eight Grammar Schools of the city. Thus it will be seen that there is a small, incipient High School, in some cases of quite vigorous growth, protruding from the top of each of our Grammar Schools. The teachers of these schools are greatly overtasked by the present arrangement, which is not to be commended for either its economy or efficiency. Most of these pupils should be brought together in one well-organized High School, in which their education could be continued to any desirable point. By the beginning of the next school year, the seats which these advanced pupils occupy in the Grammar schoolrooms, will be needed to accommodate pupils qualified to pursue the studies of the Eighth Grade.

A Normal School for girls has already been secured, and, if no more can be done, a High School for boys should be provided at once. At first this school could be located in the unoccupied portion of the hall of the Franklin Building, which would be very suitable for the purpose. The expense would thus be limited to furnishing the room and providing a salary for the teacher. This, it is true, would be but a beginning; but the work once begun, will surely go on, until it satisfies all the just demands of education.

DRAWING.

Drawing has had a place on our regular list of studies since 1868, and during this period the pupils in our schools have been required to purchase drawing cards or books, which have cost from $1,500 to $2,000 per annum. The results of these attempts to give instruction in drawing not having been satisfactory, at the close of the last school year a special committee of the Board, consisting of Trustees Stuart, Detrick, French, and AtLee, was appointed to consider the merits of the study, ascertain the causes of the comparative failure of past efforts, and to recommend such measures as would promise better success in future. The committee found that the importance of this study is recognized now more fully than ever before in all the principal cities and large towns of the country, and that its practical value in our own city is greater than in most others; for here the various Government departments and bureaus, as well as city industries, constantly demand the services of a very large number of persons trained and skilled in this art. It was evident, too, that the want of success heretofore must be attributed to the failure to furnish teachers qualified to instruct in this branch, rather than to a lack of ability to learn on the part of the pupils. In considering what measures should be adopted by the Board to have drawing properly taught in the schools, the committee consulted the best authority on the subject known to them—"Art Education," by Walter Smith—and found his views touching the case to be as follows :

"There can be no special teachers of drawing as a separate subject, any more than of writing or arithmetic, as separate subjects ; but the general teachers themselves must learn and teach elementary drawing to the children, in the same way they learn and teach other subjects. It will only be by having a teacher of drawing in every class-room in every school in the country, that all the children can be taught to draw ; and this can only be accomplished by making the general teachers include drawing among their subjects of instruction. That is how the difficulty has been met in other countries, and it is the only way possible of meeting it here. Now, if elementary drawing were either an abstruse subject or as difficult of acquisition as a new language, it would seem something like a hardship that teachers, whose daily labor is so great, and whose leisure is so scarce, should be expected to increase their labors and sacrifice their leisure to learn this new subject. But it has been found in Europe, that a valuable and sufficient power of drawing can be acquired by teachers, who have the desire to learn, in a comparatively short time, and without any very great sacrifice, either of their leisure or their patience. At the present time, in the Boston Normal Art School, the teachers of the city are receiving one lesson of one hour on alternate weeks, which, if they work out the exercises on each lesson, is, in my opinion, sufficient time to give ; and I calculate that they will have passed through a course of instruction in two subjects—free-hand and model drawing—qualifying them to give their pupils lessons in the same after one year's course of study.

“Another year the subjects of geometrical and perspective drawing will be taken up ; and, though these subjects will entail a little more home-work, they will be got through in the sessions of one year.

“I can hardly suppose that any teacher would consider such an amount of attendance on two courses of lessons as too great a price to pay for the qualification to teach elementary drawing ; and I would desire to inspire teachers with confidence in their own art powers, even if yet undeveloped, by saying that, to those who are intimately acquainted with educational processes, as teachers must be, the labor of acquiring skill in drawing is reduced to a minimum, while the result is a practical certainty. As they have great experience in teaching other subjects, I have always found school-teachers, even with a very limited power of drawing, to make by far the best teachers of drawing ; and what they themselves acquire without difficulty, they teach most successfully.

“Drawing is in many respects like a language—a visible language—the language of form, having but two letters in its alphabet, the straight line and the curve ; in this respect, like our own written words, made up of combinations of straight and curved lines, with this difference, that, whilst a word suggests the name and thought, drawing suggests the thing itself. But both drawing and writing depend for attainment on the same faculty, the faculty of imitation ; though drawing, being simpler in its elements than writing, is the more easy of acquirement. It has been amply demonstrated that every person who can be taught to write, can be taught to draw ; and where both are taught simultaneously, they assist each other, success in one being a certain indication of success in both.”

The first step to be taken was to secure the services of a person competent to instruct the teachers, and such a one was readily found in our own city—Mrs. Susan E. Fuller, a lady who was educated in the New York School of Design for Women, and who has been favorably known in this community during the past four years as teacher of a private art school. Mrs. Fuller was appointed teacher of drawing in the Public Schools, and upon her suggestion the following scheme for the study during the current year was adopted:

1st. Instruction to teachers shall be given by the teacher of drawing on Saturday of each week; the teachers shall be formed into classes according to grade, and such instructions shall be given as they require in their respective grades.

Course of Study—Free-hand outline drawing, from cards and text-books; exercises upon the blackboard; drawing from memory and dictation; model drawing in outline; and geometrical drawing.

2d. Instruction shall be given in the Normal School, by the teacher of drawing, two hours per week; a third lesson shall be given by the Principal of the school, or some member of the class.

Course of Study—Free-hand outline drawing in text-books and on the blackboard; drawing from memory and dictation; model drawing in outline; geometrical drawing; perspective; and light and shade.

3d. Instruction shall be given by the teacher of drawing to a class of boys to be selected from different schools; two lessons of one hour per week shall be given.

Course of Study—Similar to that in the Normal School, but varied at the discretion of the teacher.

4th. There shall be a general supervision by the teacher in charge of the drawing department, who will require each teacher to submit for inspection, from time to time, specimens of the work done in the school of which he or she has charge; specimens of drawing in each branch of the study shall be presented to the Committee on Drawing for examination at the close of the school year.

5th. The special Committee on Drawing shall be authorized to call the teachers together for the purpose of receiving instruction at such places and times as they may think proper.

It will be seen that the following are the prominent points in the plan adopted:

First. All the regular teachers are to qualify themselves to teach elementary drawing.

Second. All the young ladies in the Normal School, from which most of our teachers to be appointed in future will be taken, are to receive a thorough course of instruction from the special teacher of drawing.

Third. A class of advanced boys, who, during the time they have received elementary instruction from their regular teachers, have given evidence of marked ability to pursue the art with success, are to receive an advanced course of one or two years' instruction from the special teacher of drawing.

The entire scheme is now being carried out in a most satisfactory manner; and for this much credit is due to Mr. Fred. D. Stuart, the very competent and energetic chairman of the committee.

VOCAL MUSIC.

No material change in the teaching of vocal music was made during the past school year, the responsibility and the work having been divided equally between Professors Daniel and McFarland. At the commencement of the present year, Prof. McFarland resigned his position as teacher of music, and the Board availed itself of the opportunity to revise and greatly improve the system of instruction in this department. Prof. Daniel was made the sole responsible head, and two assistants, Mrs. Annie Jane King and Miss Harriet Elizabeth Havenner, were appointed to aid him in teaching. No additional expense was incurred by this change, as the amount of salary to be paid to the two lady assistants is the same as was formerly paid to Prof. McFarland. I must, however, repeat the suggestion made in former reports, that the amount paid to special teachers of vocal music, in all $2,400 per annum, is not a just compensation for the services required of them. The Committee on Music recommended and the Board have adopted for the present the following programme of instruction, with the understanding that a carefully considered and more elaborate course will be prepared before the close of the school year.

The principal music teacher shall be styled Director of Music, and the other teachers, Assistants.

It shall be the duty of the Director to see that Mason's National Music Charts—First Series—are used in all the Public Schools of this city, and he shall give such instructions to the teachers of said schools as they may need in the use of the charts.

The Director shall give instruction in music in the Normal, Grammar, and First Intermediate Schools, and, when not there engaged, he shall visit the other schools, and supervise the work of the Assistant teachers, who shall report to him, and be subject to his direction and control.

All reports in regard to the subject of music shall be made by the Director to the general Board, through the Committee on Music.

In addition to the time occupied by the teacher of music, at least forty minutes in every week shall be devoted by the teacher of each school to instructing the pupils in the theory of music.

There shall be a recitation in music every day, or on alternate days, for which marks shall be given as for other lessons.

All other teachers are expected to co-operate with the teachers of music, and to render them all the aid they can in that department.

At the close of the year, one or more concerts shall be given by the schools, for the purpose of exhibiting their proficiency in singing. And there shall be, at such time as the Committee on Examinations and Prizes may determine, an examination of the pupils of the Grammar and Intermediate Schools upon their theoretical and practical knowledge of music.

The Committee on Music shall, from time to time, make such regulations as may be necessary to give effect to the foregoing rules.

The following is submitted as a—

GERMAN LANGUAGE.

The report of the Committee on German Language is found in the appendix, and from this we learn that the attendance in the classes in this study was less than that for the preceding year. The whole number of pupils in all the classes for 1871-'72, was 402, and for 1872-'73, was 253. The progress made was not satisfactory to the Committee, for which certain reasons have been assigned. The study of the German language in our schools was commenced under a law which authorized but did not direct its introduction. The experiment was tried, unfortunately, I think, when we had no High School in which the study could be carried on until pupils gained a knowledge of the language that would be of some practical use. From the first the pursuit of the study was voluntary on the part of pupils; and the Trustees, feeling that the demand for it would not justify any interference with the programme of regular studies, did not allow the recitations to occupy any part of the time fixed for the regular sessions of the schools.

If we look into the history of the study of the German language in the Public Schools of this country, we shall find that the percentage of German population in the various cities where it has formed part of the course has had much to do with the extent and success of the study. From an abstract of the United States Census, 1870, prepared in tabular form, and given in another part of this report, it appears that the Germans constituted the following part of the entire population of the cities named: of Milwaukee, 31.63 per cent.; of Cincinnati, 22.86 per cent.; of St. Louis, 18.99 per cent.; of Buffalo, 18.90 per cent.; of Chicago, 17.49 per cent.; of Cleveland, 17.08 per cent.; while in Washington we find only 3.78 per cent. of German population.

Another reason for the dissatisfaction with the teaching of the German language, is to be found in the fact that the law authorized the payment of $1,200 per annum to each special teacher of the language, and this amount was paid for their services, although the Board could employ them only 10 hours per week each, while other teachers of equal merit were receiving a much smaller rate of compensation.

For these reasons the members of the Board have thus far during this year refused to appoint special teachers of the German language, and have been unable to agree upon any satisfactory arrangement for the continuance of the study. I am not disposed to consider the action of the Board as a final disposition of the subject, for there is in our schools a certain demand for this study; and I am confident that some practicable plan will yet be found for placing the German language in its proper position among the studies for our Public Schools.

EXAMINATIONS AND PRIZES.

Our School calendar for 1872-'73, gives 203 school days in that school year; but referring to Table I, appended to this report, we find that the average number of days that each school was in session is not quite 179. The extra holidays given, the closing of some of the schools occasionally for other reasons, and the final closing of all the schools before the end of June, the time fixed by the standing rules of the Board, made an average deduction of 24 days from the number allotted in the calendar to each school. By examining the table still further, it appears that the aggregate absence of teachers, caused mainly by sickness, amounted to $722\frac{1}{2}$ days, which is equivalent to the absence of four teachers throughout the entire year. This number of days was distributed as follows: in the First District, $126\frac{1}{2}$ days; in the Second District, 192 days; in the Fourth district, $194\frac{1}{2}$ days; and in the Third District, $209\frac{1}{2}$ days. Although these heavy deductions were made from the working time, the results of the year's labor were found to be very satisfactory at the closing examinations.

During the months of February, March, and April, I examined the schools of the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Grades, one hundred and one in all. A written examination of the thirty-two schools comprised in the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Grades, and the Advanced Course, was held June 2d, under the supervision of teachers assigned to that duty; and the work of the pupils was carefully inspected and marked, and a report of the same with the papers was sent to this office. The printed questions used in these examinations are found in the appendix.

The annual oral examinations commenced June 3, and ended June 20. In all, 194 examinations were held between May 27 and June 20. The labor and time required in this work were a very heavy tax upon the Trustees; and, in order to afford some relief at the end of the present year, I would suggest that the four Male Grammar Schools be finally examined and closed on the last of May, and that the Principals of these schools be employed to assist in conducting the other examinations.

The report of the Committee on Examinations and Prizes, found in the appendix, gives a full account of the examinations for the award of the special prizes offered by the Board. The two prizes which stand highest on the list, the college scholarships, were both carried off by the Male Grammar school of the Third District. The Kendall Scholarship, a six years' course in the Columbian University, was awarded to Master Edwin L. Scott, whose percentage at the examination was 87; and the King Scholarship, a four years' course in Dickinson College, was awarded to Master Walter M. McFarland, whose percentage was 81.2. The average percentage attained by the four boys from the school named was 72.9; and the four boys from the Male Grammar School of the Second District received precisely the same mark, in this respect being equal.

At the request of the teachers of the Grammar Schools, the Board has given permission, in these schools, during the present year, to substitute monthly written examinations in place of the daily record of recitations heretofore kept. The percentage attained by the pupils in these examinations is to be entered in the Record-Book each month, and to be reported to the parents or guardians. The substitute is now having a fair trial, and by the end of the year we shall be able to judge of its merits. The monthly written examination itself is not a new feature in these schools; for it has been the practice to hold this for the purpose of reviewing, not only in the Grammar grades, but also in the grades below. I am not yet fully convinced that a daily record of recitations does not furnish to pupils a daily incentive to diligence in study.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

From Table XX, accompanying this report, it will be seen that during the past fiscal year the entire receipts from the school tax of 33 cents on each $100 of valuation, were $172,890.35 ; and the amount received from United States fines was only $162.68 ; making a total of $173,053.03. By an act of Congress, approved June 25, 1864, all moneys accruing from fines, penalties, and forfeitures, for violations of the laws of the United States within the District of Columbia, were to be paid over for the support of the Public Schools ; but in the act establishing the Police Court, the greater portion of this revenue was appropriated to pay the expenses of the court, so that the amount now received from this source is hardly worth mentioning. The total payments on account of the Public Schools during the year amounted to $259,837.76. The payments were therefore $86,784.73 in excess of the receipts ; and of the amount paid out, $59,472.80 was expended for permanent improvements. The payments during the year, as stated above, included debts remaining unpaid from the previous year, and did not include all the current expenses.

From Table XV we find that the total ordinary expenses of the white schools for the year were $160,568.29. The colored schools were entitled to receive a sum equal to about fifty per cent. of this amount, which would give us a total of $240,000, required to pay the ordinary expenses of all the Public Schools of the city. From these statements, it plainly appears that a tax of 50 cents on each $100 of valuation would have furnished but little more revenue than was actually required to pay the current expenses of the schools ; and this rate of tax will undoubtedly be required for the same purpose in future, for the increase in valuation of taxable property will not more than keep pace with the increase of the Public Schools.

From Table XV we also learn that the cost of educating each pupil of the average number enrolled in this city, for 1870, was 28.42 ; for 1871, was 23.88 ; for 1872, was 24.66 ; and for 1873, was 23.30. In 1873 the cost per pupil in the cities named was as follows: Boston, 33.57 ; Cincinnati, 23.91 ; New York, 23.27 ; and Chicago, 22.87. These statements indicate that the cost of education here is not excessive, and that it would not be the part of justice or wisdom to attempt to diminish it. The expenditures made for rent, and for fitting up and keeping in repair the rented rooms and buildings, now constitute fully a third part of the contingent expenses, which will be lessened considerably when the schools are supplied with suitable buildings owned by the city ; but the expenses for tuition will be necessarily increased as a higher grade of instruction is provided.

The salaries of teachers now make up more than two-thirds of the entire expenses of the schools. These salaries are as liberal as they are in other cities ; but they certainly ought not to be reduced. The average salary for each teacher during the past year was $757.26, while in the Government departments in this city ladies were paid at least $900 per annum for services which were not more arduous than those of the teacher, and which did not require greater ability or higher culture.

The following table furnishes a comparative and analytical statement of the expenses of the schools for the last four years :

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The four independent systems of Public Schools in the District of Columbia are still continued. The white schools of Washington are managed by a Board of twenty Trustees, the Governor of the District being ex-officio president of the same; the white schools of Georgetown, by a Board of five Trustees; the colored schools of Washington and Georgetown, by a Board of nine Trustees; and the white and the colored schools of the County, by a Board of seven Trustees. By an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1873, the number of Trustees of the colored schools of Washington and Georgetown was increased from three to nine, and the power to appoint these and the officers of the Board was vested in the Governor. He now appoints forty-nine Trustees, constituting the four Boards, two Superintendents, two Secretaries, two Treasurers, and two Secretaries and Treasurers.

The following is a summary of the general statistics of all the Public Schools in the District of Columbia:

The foregoing statements show progress during the past year in the following respects: Increase in the value of school property, $53,707; in the number of seats provided for pupils, 430; in the number of teachers employed, 8; in the whole number of pupils enrolled, 1,215.

The experience of another year has strengthened the opinion expressed in my last report, that a Board of Education for the District of Columbia should be created; that it should have corporate powers; the custody of all the school property and funds; and authority to appoint its own officers, to determine within prescribed limits the rate of school tax to be levied, to purchase sites and erect school buildings, to establish new schools, to fix the salaries and decide upon the number and qualifications of teachers to be employed; and thus it should have general jurisdiction over all the Public Schools of the District. Seven members would be a sufficient number to constitute this Board, and they should be so selected as to fairly represent the interests of all the Public Schools in the District. To this Board should be transferred the powers relating to schools that are now vested in the legislative department of the District Government, and such powers now exercised by the Trustees as may be necessary to secure uniform and efficient administration of the several systems; but it would not be advisable, for a time at least, to have it entirely supersede the present organizations.

When the District was governed by three corporations, the legislative body of each held weekly meetings; and the Trustees of the schools, at any time, could make known their wants to these bodies. Now the Legislative Assembly of the District holds but one short continuous session each year; and experience has taught us that it is impossible to get for the schools that consideration which their importance demands. During the intervals between these sessions, contingencies may arise that will require action for which there is no authority of law. In fact, the Trustees have already been greatly embarrassed by this state of things, and in a few instances important interests of the schools have required them to assume the responsibility of acting without any legal warrant. The powers of the several existing Boards might be somewhat enlarged, so as to remedy some of the evils alluded to; but such a measure would tend toward a wider separation rather than a closer union of the systems; and their complete unity is the end toward which our efforts should be directed.

A classified statement of the school population, and of the whole number and percentage of pupils enrolled in all the Public Schools of the District, is given in the following table:

This table shows a very gratifying gain in the percentage of pupils enrolled in the white schools of Georgetown. In 1871-'72, the percentage was 28.6; in 1872-'73, it was 36.3; and for the present year the gain will be still greater. Comparing this table with a similar one in the last report, we find that the white schools of the District have gained 450 pupils, and the colored, 765.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

I have to submit for your special consideration the following recommendations, which require additional legislation:

First. That provision be made, at the earliest practicable moment, for the purchase of a site, and the erection of a suitable school building, in the Second School District, to accommodate the six or eight hundred girls who are now occupying rented rooms.

Second. That a Boys' High School be established, and a principal teacher be employed at a salary of $2,500 per annum.

Third. That a special teacher of drawing be appointed, at a salary not exceeding $1,200 per annum.

Fourth. That authority be obtained to establish sixteen additional Intermediate Schools.

Fifth. That the salary of each principal of a Male Grammar School be fixed at $1,800, with an annual increase of $100, until it reaches a maximum of $2,000; and the salary of each assistant in said school be fixed at $1,200, with an annual increase of $100, until it reaches a maximum of $1,400.

Sixth. That the "Fund to endow the Public Schools," now amounting to about $80,000, be used to purchase a site and commence the erection of a building for a High School.

Seventh. That a vigorous effort be made to induce Congress, during its present session, to give some aid, by a donation of public lands or money, to the Public Schools of the District of Columbia.

I have purposely limited the foregoing recommendations to those things which at this time are most essential to the welfare and progress of the schools, and which ought to be accomplished before the time arrives for writing the next annual report.

CONCLUSION.

The year that has passed since the date of my last annual report has not filled the full measure of our expectations. Nevertheless it has made its marks of progress in the history of the schools. More than a thousand pupils have been added to the whole number enrolled, a new and better course of study has had a successful trial, the grading of the schools has been improved as far as their crowded condition would permit, the methods of teaching drawing and vocal music have been revised and improved, so that these studies will receive due attention in future, a Normal School for the professional education of teachers for our own schools has been established, and the advance made by the Public Schools of Washington has been recognized at the Vienna Universal Exposition by the award of a "Medal for Progress."

The want of sufficient means must be our apology for not accomplishing more. This statement does not imply neglect of duty on the part of the tax-payers, or of the Government of the District. The tax on each $100 of valuation, paid during the past year for the support of schools in the cities named, was as follows: Boston, 18.3 cents; Chicago, 20.4 cents; Baltimore, 27 cents. In Washington, during the first two years of the present government, commencing July 1, 1871, and ending June 30, 1873, the school tax on each $100 of valuation averaged 46.5 cents per annum. During the period named the District Government expended for the Public Schools of the city all the revenue derived from this tax, and a sum over and above this amounting to $193,826.73. Since 1863 the city of Washington has built up an excellent system of Public Schools for colored children, and there are at this time over 4,000 pupils on their rolls. Besides paying the current expenses of these schools, it has provided for their permanent use sites and school buildings now valued at $250,000. During the same period, the past ten years, the District of Columbia has invested $1,000,000 in property for the permanent use of its Public Schools. Surely this is a fair record for the last decade.

I have stated in former reports that when we compare the taxable property and school population of other cities with our own, we find apparently a large excess of school population here. The reasons for this are quite obvious. On the one hand about one half of the property within the city limits is exempt from taxation, the Government of the United States being the owner; on the other, our school population has been greatly increased from two sources—the sudden and large influx of colored people during the late war, and the very large number of persons who have come here to engage in the service of the National Government, and who are deterred from acquiring a permanent residence in this city by the uncertain tenure of office. With the view of illustrating the anomalous condition of our city, I have compiled from the last United States Census the following table, giving a classified statement of the population and occupation of the largest twenty cities:

In the above list of cities, ranked according to their population, Washington stands twelfth. Almost one third, 32.46 per cent., of the population is colored; a much larger proportion than we find in any of the other cities given in the list. In 1860, just before the war, the per cent. of colored population was only 17.96. Thus we see, that the per cent. of this class of population was, in a short period, nearly doubled; and it is hardly necessary to state, that this increase has added greatly to the demand for schools, but has not perceptibly augmented the revenues to maintain them.

Looking again at the table, we find that the part of the entire population set down under the head of "persons engaged in all classes of occupation," is separated into four divisions, under the following heads: persons engaged in "agriculture;" in "manufactures and mechanical and mining industries;" in "trade and transportation;" and in "personal and professional services." The first three classes add directly to the wealth of a city. This cannot be said of the fourth class, although its services, when found in due proportion, may be of equal or greater importance to a community than those of the other classes. The average percentage of the fourth class of population in the cities named is but a little above 13, while in Washington we find it to be almost 24.

In this connection it should also be stated that Table IX, appended to this report, shows that of the whole number of pupils enrolled in the Public Schools of the city during the past year 30.79 per cent. were children of parents or guardians in the employ of the United States Government. I am aware that it will be claimed that this class of our community receive as salaries large sums of money monthly, which are in turn paid out, in part at least, in this city, for house rent and other expenses of living, and that in this way they are indirectly tax-payers. I think, however, that what the city now needs is a larger number of direct tax-payers. Let us, by way of illustration, suppose the case of a wealthy citizen of New York or Chicago, extensively engaged in manufactures or trade, and having in his employ two thousand persons, who receive and disburse their monthly salaries precisely as the same number of employees do here, the Public Schools of the respective cities receiving equal benefit therefrom. The Public Schools of the city in which the employer is a private citizen have a decided advantage over ours, for there the employer receives and invests the profits accruing from the labor of his employees, and pays taxes upon property valued at, perhaps, ten or twenty millions of dollars, a part of which is applied to the support of schools for the children of those by whose labors he has been enabled to accumulate his wealth. Here the employer, the Government of the United States, numbers his employees by many thousands, but pays no taxes for the support of schools.

The foregoing statements, I think, furnish an explanation of the financial difficulties which continually retard or intercept our progress. It is clearly evident that the city cannot sustain the burden of taxation required to carry on our present systems of Public Schools, and that either assistance must be obtained from the General Government or a tuition fee, covering the cost of education, must be exacted from those pupils who are not permanent residents of the city. The adoption of the latter alternative would be a measure greatly to be deprecated, for here education should be as free as air.

For the purpose of ascertaining what proportion of the parents or guardians of pupils in our schools are tax-payers here, I recently procured a complete list from the Annual Registers of four schools fairly representing all, and obtained an accurate report on the same from the office of the Collector of Taxes. The list contained the names of 246 parents or guardians of pupils, and of this number only 66, or 26.82 per cent., were tax-payers.

Upon the close of the late war the Government aided extensively in initiating the elementary education of the colored people in Southern States and cities where this class of population was not so numerous as it was in this city; but, so far as I am aware, not a dollar was ever expended here for this purpose. The Government has also, from time to time, made most liberal donations of public lands to aid in establishing and sustaining common schools in all the Territories as they became States. The District of Columbia, the permanent seat of the Government, over which Congress may exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, has had no share in the distribution of these educational benefactions. I feel confident, however, that the Government will yet be just, if not generous, to this District, and that Congress will be as liberal in fostering education here as it has been elsewhere. Our best efforts should now be directed to providing adequate means to support and advance the Public Schools committed to our care, for our labors will be of little avail unless this be accomplished.

Respectfully submitted,

J. ORMOND WILSON,
Superintendent.

NOTE.—The statistics embraced in the preceding tables were collected in the latter part of November, 1872. During the year, 28 new private schools have been established in Washington, and during the same period 25 were discontinued, in most instances for lack of support, many students preferring to avail themselves of the increased facilities afforded by the Public Schools. Of the 102 private schools in Washington City, 20 (a number of them parish schools) are conducted under Roman Catholic auspices, and have an aggregate attendance of 2,963, or more than one-half the total number attending the private schools. There are 9 colored pay schools (some of them evening schools, and have principally for the benefit of adults) in operation, with an aggregate attendance of 362 pupils. Of this number 2 are Roman Catholic. No note is made in the above table of perhaps a dozen small family schools, having an attendance of not more than from 2 to 5 pupils each; nor of professors and others who give private instruction in music, the modern languages, phonography, &c. In Washington City the whole number of pupils in all the Private Schools, including Institutions for Secondary Instruction and Charitable and Reformatory Educational Institutions, was, white, 5,414; colored, 362; total, 5,776.

(a) This institution is conducted under Protestant auspices, and is supported wholly by voluntary contributions. The ages of the inmates vary from two to eighteen years. Mrs. C. Johnson is the matron.

(b) This institution is conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Cross, although no distinction is made on account of religion in receiving inmates. It is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. The ages of the inmates range from five to twelve years. It is governed by a board of trustees, of which the Rev. J. A. Walter is president. Since the organization of the institution 366 orphans have been cared for.

(c) Since the establishment of this asylum over 5,000 orphan girls, who were received at the age of five years, and retained until sixteen, when homes were found for them, have been cared for. Rev. Father Doyle is president of the board of directors. The asylum is supported by voluntary contributions, and by the interest on small bequests which have been left it from time to time.

(d) The Forty-first Congress appropriated $15,000 to establish this institution, which receives only the orphans of Union soldiers and sailors. The ages of the present inmates range from six to fifteen and a half years. The president of the board of lady managers is Mrs. General David Hunter; the superintendent of the home is Mrs. E. E. Scarborough; and the teacher, Mr. Corlew. The home is supported by annual appropriations of Congress and by voluntary contributions. Suitable positions are obtained for the older inmates through the personal influence of the board of trustees and lady managers. Among the incorporators of the home are Mrs. President Grant, Mrs. General Sherman, and Mrs. Governor Cooke.

(e) Supported by voluntary contributions. The school is especially for juvenile street vagrants of both sexes. Mrs. Manifold is the matron of the school.

(f) This school was removed from the vicinity of Georgetown, in August last, to Mount Lincoln, where the boys are temporarily quartered in a barn until the new buildings (to accommodate three hundred inmates) authorized by Congress are completed. That body, at its last session, appropriated $100,000 for the purchase of a farm and erection of buildings, and one hundred and fifty acres were purchased last summer, and the new structure will be ready for occupancy within a few months. Juvenile delinquents are sent to the school by the courts, and destitute boys are admitted on the order of the Governor of the District or Trustees of the School.

Sentence for Analysis and Parsing.

"Men who their duties know,
But know their rights, and, knowing, dare maintain,
Prevent the long-aimed blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain:
These constitute a State;
And sovereign Law, that State's collected will,
O'er thrones and globes elate
Sits empress, crowning good, repressing ill."

CONCLUSION.

It is with pleasure that your committee presents so favorable a report of the special examinations showing results unsurpassed in any former year. The rule of the Board prohibiting special preparation and giving extra time and attention for this purpose was duly observed by most of the teachers, and it is confidently expected that there will be no exception hereafter, now that the clearly expressed will of the Board is understood by all.

It is of the highest importance that our prizes should be awarded in strict accordance with merit; and the records of the year, upon which they are in part based, should be made up with care and fidelity. If this is done, it will not be difficult to make the awards, although the difference in rank may be slight. At the close of the past year, in a few instances, the teacher reported two or more pupils as equally entitled to receive the first honor of a school. Your committee is not disposed to look with favor upon such reports, but rather to regard them as indications either that the teacher has not kept the records properly or is unwilling to make the decision required by the rules of the Board.

The present Prize List, with some slight modifications, accompanies this report, and its adoption for the next ensuing year is recommended.

Your committee cannot conclude this report without tendering their acknowledgments to the gentlemen who rendered very able and satisfactory assistance in conducting the most important special examinations.

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND F. FRENCH,

FRED. D. STUART,

ELWARD CHAMPLIN,

WM. J. RHEES,

Committee.

The committee feels bound to state, that the progress made in the study of the German language is not such as your committee would like to report.

This is due, however, 1st, to the very limited time devoted to the study; 2d, to numerous irregularities; and 3d, to the absence of support, in some cases, on the part of the Trustees, as well as of the regular teachers of some of the schools. Considering these circumstances, the classes in the several districts have done as well as could be expected.

The chairman of the committee, who examined all the German classes, considers it but fair to say, that the first classes in the Third District excelled in their proficiency to such an extent, that this statement is but a just acknowledgment of the services of the teacher and the attention paid to the study by the pupils.

TRUSTEES, APPOINTMENT OF. (Same, §§ 2 and 3.)—Annually, on or about the first Monday in October, the Mayor shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen, three Trustees from each school district, who, with the Mayor as President, shall have the management of all the Public Schools. The absence of a Trustee from three successive meetings of the Board, except in case of sickness or necessary absence from the city, shall vacate his seat as a member, and the Secretary shall notify the Mayor, who shall fill the vacancy. The Board shall continue in office till their successors are appointed. They shall assemble at the City Hall on the first Monday after their appointment, or some early day thereafter, (of which due notice shall be given by the Mayor,) and shall organize. In case the Mayor shall be absent, or unable to preside at any meeting, a President pro tempore shall be elected by the members present. (Joint Resolution, August 27, 1870.)—The Mayor was authorized to select suitable rooms in the Franklin School Building for the use of the Board, Superintendent, Treasurer, and Secretary, where all their meetings should be held, and books, papers, and records kept.

DUTIES AND POWERS. (Act November 12, 1858, § 5.)—They shall appoint all teachers authorized by law, and change them at pleasure; prescribe the course of study and books to be used, but no book shall be changed unless by a vote of two-thirds of the Board, and the books in all the schools of the several districts shall be uniform; make and execute such by-laws and rules and regulations for the management of the schools as they may deem necessary and proper, a copy of which shall occupy a conspicuous place in each school; and alter, amend, or abrogate them at pleasure; and do all business pertaining to the schools, agreeably to their by-laws and regulations, and subject to the laws of the Corporation. They shall cause an annual examination of all the Public Schools to be held in or before the month of July, and shall make a written report to the Boards of Aldermen and Common Council annually, on or about the first Monday in September, giving a full account of their proceedings for the past year, the condition of the several schools, the number of pupils of each sex, with the studies pursued, and make whatever suggestions from time to time they may conceive proper for the better accomplishment of the objects of this law, and give such other information as the two Boards, or either of them, may at any time call for. (Act May 7, 1869, § 6.)—Not lawful for the Trustees to expend, without the written authority of the Mayor or an act of the Councils, more than fifty dollars for improvements upon any one school-house. SUB-BOARDS. (Act November 12, 1858, § 6.)—The Board shall divide themselves into as many Sub-Boards as there may be school districts, for the exercise of a practical supervision over the schools placed under their jurisdiction, severally subject to the control of the Board. The Sub-Boards shall meet at least once a month, at the respective school-houses, on a day to be appointed by themselves.

ESTIMATES AND APPROPRIATIONS. (Same, § 11.)—The Trustees shall annually furnish to the City Councils estimates of the amounts that may be necessary for the payment of teachers, for purchase of books and stationery, and for all other contingent and necessary expenses: and it shall be the duty of the two Boards to make provision by law for the payment of all such salaries and necessary expenses out of the school fund, and when that shall be insufficient, out of the general fund; and all such appropriations shall be subject to the order of Trustees, as required, to be properly disbursed, for which receipts shall be taken and returned to the Register for settlement.

SECRETARY AND TREASURER. (Same, § 4.)—The Mayor shall, when he appoints the Trustees, appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Board of Aldermen, a Secretary, who shall keep a journal of the proceedings of the Trustees, and perform such other duties as the rules and the nature of his office may require. His salary shall be $200 per annum, payable monthly out of the school fund. In like manner the Mayor shall appoint a Treasurer, to make the disbursements for the Public Schools, and keep the accounts and vouchers thereof. The Secretary and Treasurer shall attend the meetings of the Trustees, but have no vote. (Act September 7, 1869, § 4.)—Salary of Treasurer fixed at $800 per annum. He also presented a communication from the President of the Board of Health, in reply to one addressed to him by the Secretary of the Board of Public Schools, under date of the 17th ultimo, relative to vaccination of pupils in the Public Schools; which was ordered to be transmitted to the Board of Trustees of Colored Schools.

He also presented a memorial from W. H. Doherty, Esq., relative to the necessity for the establishment of a School of the Useful Arts in connection with the educational system of the City; which was referred to the Committee on Text-Books.

He also presented an abstract of reports for February, 1873.

Mr. HART, from the Sub-Board of the First District, reported the following nomination; which was confirmed:

Appoint Miss Susan R. LeBosquet acting teacher of Primary No. 3, First District, vice Miss M. Alice Groff, transferred, from February 12, 1873.

Mr. ATLEE, from the Sub-Board of the Fourth District, reported the following transfers; which were confirmed:

Transfer Miss Lizzie M. Stromberger from the acting to the permanent list.

Mr. RANDOLPH, from the Committee on Teachers, made the following report; which was adopted:

Miss Maggie Forbes having attained the age of eighteen, and having passed successfully for a primary certificate at the recent examination, is accordingly recommended by the Committee on Teachers for such certificate.

Mr. CHAMPLIN, from the Committee on Text-Books, made the following report; which was agreed to:

The Committee on Text-Books, to whom Mr. W. H. Doherty's memorials "on the important subject of the imperative necessity for the establishment of a School of the Useful Arts" in connection with the Public Schools of this city were referred, has to report that the same have been duly considered, and the committee finds that the Board of Trustees has neither the authority nor the funds to establish such a school, and therefore asks to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Mr. HART, from the Committee on Accounts, reported favorably the following bills; which were approved by the Board:

Crandell & Riley, $47 78, $551 17, $127 40, $187 65, $14 69, $6 53, $42 46, $5 80, $1—$797 43; Washington Gaslight Company, $11 40, $16 50, $18 90, $33 40—$85 20; Kidwell & Henderson, $65 36; Wm. Ballantyne, $399 25; Wm. Nottingham, $35 20; W. H. Marlow, $384 67.

Mr. HART stated that he had reason to believe that the contractor for furnishing fuel for the Public Schools was not furnishing the proper weight of coal, and that the certificates of weight furnished by said contractor were forged; he therefore moved to reconsider the vote by which the bills of the contractor were approved at the last meeting of the Board.

Mr. SCOTT moved to amend the motion so that the bills of Mr. Gatchel, the weigher, approved at the same meeting, should be included.

The motion as amended was carried.

Mr. HARRIS offered the following:

Whereas it is charged by a member of this Board that William Guinand, the contractor for furnishing coal and wood to the Public Schools, has defrauded said schools by not giving the proper weight of coal; and whereas it is also charged that, in a number of cases, the certificates of the public weigher have been forged: therefore

Resolved, That a committee of four members be appointed to inquire into said charges; that said committee be directed to make the inquiry as soon as possible, and to report the result of their investigations to this Board at a special meeting to be held on Tuesday, 25th inst., at 7.30 p. m.

Adopted; and the chair appointed the following committee:

Messrs. Harris, Rhees, Scott, Champlin.

Mr. HART moved to return two bills of Mr. Donaldson, for work done in the Fourth District, to the Sub-Board of said District, inasmuch as said bills had already been approved and paid. Adopted.

Mr. Detrick offered the following; which was laid on the table:

Resolved, That under the law the Governor of the District of Columbia is constituted the President of this Board, and that when he is absent at any of its meetings, it becomes necessary to elect a President pro tempore before proceeding to business.

Adjourned to Tuesday evening, 25th inst., at 7.30 o'clock.

ADJOURNED MEETING, MARCH 25, 1873.

Present: Trustees Allan, AtLee, Champlin, Detrick, Dulin, French, Harris, Hart, Moore, Murtagh, Randolph, Rhees, Richards, Scott, Stuart, Wilson, and Woodward, Superintendent Wilson, Secretary Fardon, and Treasurer Cowan. Absent: Trustees Crook, Faust, and Robinson.

Mr. FRENCH was chosen chairman.

Mr. RANDOLPH moved that the Board immediately proceed with the business for which it had met, viz, to hear the Report of the Special Committee appointed at the last meeting. So ordered.

Mr. HARRIS, chairman of the Special Committee, presented the following report:

The committee appointed under the following resolution of the Board—

"Whereas it is charged by a member of this Board that William Guinand, the contractor for furnishing coal and wood to the Public Schools, has defrauded said schools by not giving the proper weight of coal; and whereas it is also charged that, in a number of cases, the certificates of the Public Weigher have been forged: therefore

Resolved, That a committee of four members be appointed to inquire into said charges; that said committee be directed to make the inquiry as soon as possible, and to report the result of their investigations to this Board at a special meeting to be held on Tuesday, 25th inst., at 7.30 p. m."

—beg leave to submit the following report:

Your committee held its first session on Monday, March 17, and proceeded with the investigation. Mr. Guinand was present, with witnesses and with counsel, and he was accorded the fullest opportunities for explanation and for the cross-examination of the witnesses that had been summoned by the committee.

The committee met again on Wednesday, March 19, and, although it was understood at the previous meeting that the evidence had been closed, Mr. Guinand was afforded another opportunity to make further statements. One of his witnesses then made an explanation of testimony previously given, which he said had been erroneously reported. Mr. Guinand and his counsel were both heard for the defence.

The committee, it will be observed, was directed to investigate two distinct charges, and to ascertain the truth or falsity of two distinct propositions, viz:

1st. Whether the Public Schools had been defrauded by not receiving the proper weight of coal from the contractor; and

2d. Whether the certificates of the Public Weigher had been forged.

With regard to the first proposition, the fact was established by positive and direct evidence that at least seven tons of coal which had been ordered for the First School District fell short an average of over three hundred pounds to the ton. This coal was reweighed immediately after delivery. Mr. Thompson, a clerk in the employ of Mr. Guinand, who was called as a witness for the latter, testified that the scales at the yard, of which he had charge, and whence the coal was brought, were out of order; that he had not weighed the coal, but that he guessed at the weight. Yet this witness sent with the coal certificates, purporting to have been signed by E. C. Gatchel, (who was supposed to be a Public Weigher or inspector,) which certificates were intended to create the impression that the coal had been weighed by the said Public Weigher, and that each cart contained a full ton of 2240 pounds.

The committee did not deem it necessary, after establishing the above facts, to inquire further in relation to particular loads of coal; but other general evidence left no room for doubt, that the schools had been defrauded in like manner at other times.

With regard to the second proposition, the testimony of Mr. Gatchel himself, and of Mr. Altemus, the principal clerk in Mr. Guinand's employ, established the fact, that a large majority of the certificates purporting to have been signed by Gatchel were signed by said Altemus with Guinand's knowledge, and that, too, without Gatchel's authority. It further appeared that Mr. Gatchel was not a Public Weigher under the Government of the District of Columbia.

The coal contract was awarded to Mr. Guinand on July 11, 1872, and at that time the Board of School Trustees adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That for all coal delivered by the contractors, for the use of the Public Schools of this city, certificates of the Public Weighers be required."

Mr. Guinand was not ignorant of that resolution, for he had discussed it with members of this Board, and thought it impracticable to carry it out.

Nor do the committee believe that he could have been ignorant of section 42 of the act of the Legislative Assembly, approved August 23, 1871, which regulates the weighing and selling of coal, and which, among others, contains the following clause.

"If any person or persons, licensed as aforesaid," (to sell coal,) "shall sell and deliver any coal which shall not have been first weighed by one of the coal inspectors of the District, unless the buyer shall have previously agreed to dispense with such weighing, he shall be liable to a fine of not less than three nor more than five dollars for every such violation."

In the opinion of the committee, Mr. Guinand must have known that Mr. Gatchel was not a regularly appointed weigher or inspector.

It was also in evidence that Mr. Gatchel had presented two bills for weighing coal at the rate of 20 cents per ton, although, according to his own testimony, he had never performed the work. The law above referred to fixes the compensation of the weigher at 10 cents per ton, "payable by the seller of such coal."

Your committee believe that both the propositions above stated have been proven, and they therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolutions, viz:

1. Resolved, That in the settlement of the accounts with William Guinand for coal furnished the Public Schools, the Committee on Accounts be directed to make a deduction of — per cent.

2. Resolved, That the contract with said William Guinand for furnishing fuel to the Public Schools be, and the same is hereby, rescinded, and that the respective Sub-Boards be directed to purchase fuel in open market until otherwise ordered by this Board

3. Resolved, That no further payment be made to E. C. Gatchel for alleged services in weighing coal for the Public Schools. Respectfully submitted,

O. K. HARRIS,
E. CHAMPLIN
A. M. SCOTT,
WM. J. RHEES,
Committee.

Mr. HARRIS also presented a copy of the evidence in the case, and certain papers in the nature of vouchers, all of which were placed on the files of the Board.

On motion of Mr. STUART, the report was received.

Mr. ATLEE moved that the blank in the first resolution be filled by inserting fifteen per cent.

Mr. RANDOLPH moved to amend the motion of Mr. ATLEE, by striking out all after the words "directed to" in the first resolution and inserting as follows:

"Deduct ten per cent. on all bills not approved by the Board."

Mr. ATLEE accepted the amendment.

After a lengthy discussion upon the report, in which most of the members participated, the previous question was ordered, and the amendment was adopted by the following vote:

YEAS—Messrs. AtLee, Champlin, Detrick, Dulin, French, Harris, Hart, Moore, Murtagh, Randolph, Rhees, Scott, Stuart, Wilson, and Woodward—15.

NAY—Mr. Richards—1.

The resolution as amended was as follows.

Resolved, That in the settlement of the accounts with William Guinand for coal furnished the Public Schools, the Committee on Accounts be directed to deduct ten per cent. on all bills not approved by the Board.

Mr. RICHARDS moved that the further consideration of the matter be suspended, and that the Committee on Accounts be instructed to report the bills of Mr. Guinand for the approval or disapproval of the Board; which was not agreed to by the following vote:

YEAS—Messrs. Allan, French, Moore, Richards, and Wilson—5.

NAYS—Messrs. AtLee, Champlin, Detrick, Dulin, Harris, Hart, Murtagh, Randolph, Rhees, Scott, Stuart, Woodward—12.

The first resolution as amended was then adopted by the following vote:

YEAS—Messrs. AtLee, Champlin, Detrick, Dulin, French, Harris, Hart, Murtagh, Randolph, Rhees, Scott, Stuart, and Woodward—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Allan, Moore, Richards, and Wilson—4.

The second and third resolutions, as reported by the committee, were then unanimously adopted.

The report as amended was then adopted.

The Committee on Rules, to which was referred the following resolution,— Resolved, That the Rules of the Board be amended, by inserting therein a requirement that semi-annual examinations for teachers shall be held on the first Saturday in June and the Saturday preceding Christmas day in each year"— would respectfully report a recommendation to amend section 5, article V, of the By-Laws of the Board, as follows:

In the first line, after the words "Committee on Teachers," insert the following words: "They shall hold semi-annual examinations of applicants for teachers' positions, one on the third Saturday of December and the other on the last Saturday in May of each year;" also, in the second line of said section, after the word "applicants," strike out the following words: "for positions as teachers."

Resolved 1st. That in the opinion of this Board, all legislation touching the interests of the Public Schools should be in laws separate and distinct from other subjects of legislation.

2d. That in all legislation providing the means for supporting the schools, there should be a positive provision prohibiting the School Fund from being diverted to any other use or purpose than that for which it was intended and appropriated, and that the people who so generously pay their taxes to create that fund, the children for whose use and benefit it is paid into the treasury, and the teachers, whose weary toil is at best but poorly requited, and who, on this subject, speak from bitter experience, have a right to ask, if not demand, that the Legislative Assembly, now about to meet, shall incorporate such a proviso into the law appropriating money for the support of the schools.

3d. That this Board, as the chosen and rightful guardian of the Public Schools of this city—the Capital of the Nation—do most earnestly and respectfully recommend this subject to the favorable consideration of the in-coming Legislative Assembly.

The Committee on Music, to whom was referred the resolution offered by Mr. Wilson at the adjourned meeting of this Board held July 29, touching the propriety of appointing "one music teacher, who shall have the principal charge of that branch of public instruction, and the appointment of two ladies as assistant teachers," &c., have carefully considered the subject, and beg leave to report, that in their opinion such a change in the present system would be highly beneficial; that thereby the interest in the study of music would be greatly enhanced, and, as a result, better success in that branch of study would be attained. They therefore recommend the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That Joseph H. Daniel be appointed the principal teacher of music in the Public Schools of this city, and that the Committee on Music be authorized to nominate two assistant teachers, to be employed at a salary of not more than $600 a year each, and that said committee be authorized and directed to give to the principal teacher the necessary instructions as to his duties for the time being, and also to prepare a course of study in music, and rules for the government of the principal and his assistants in the conduct of the duties to be assigned to them, and report the same at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. HART, chairman, from the Committee on German, submitted the following report, signed by himself and Mr. Detrick:

The Committee on German Language, to whom the question of continuing the study of German in the Public Schools, together with several resolutions and amendments, was referred, has carefully considered the subject, and come to the conclusion to recommend to the Board the continuance of said study, with such modifications as will hereafter appear in this report.

It being under the law voluntary for pupils to join the German classes, and experience having shown that in no instance whole regular classes have taken up the study of German, your committee is of the opinion that it is best to have the German taught between the hours of 12 and 1 and 3 and 4 afternoon, in order to prevent any interference with the regular studies of the schools: the teachers to be required to give three lessons a week to the first, and two lessons a week to the second classes. Your committee further recommends, that the salary of the German teachers be fixed at the rate of $600 per annum.

In recommending the latter, the committee has considered the time which can possibly be given to the schools by the German teachers, and is of the opinion that the amount named is a fair compensation.

It is also to be understood that German teachers shall not be employed unless the requisite number of classes are furnished by the Grammar Schools of each district, as prescribed by law.

2. Application for admission shall be made to a Trustee of the School District in which the party applying resides, who, on being satisfied that the child is a suitable candidate for admission, shall grant a ticket, addressed to the teacher of such school within his district as he may think proper; and all applicants shall have precedence in the order in which their tickets shall be received by the teacher.

3. At the commencement of each school year the order of admission of pupils shall be as follows:

II. Pupils transferred in due form from other schools, who must first have been entered on their rolls.

III. Applicants, in the order of presenting their tickets. In cases of sickness or necessary absence from the city, provided a satisfactory representation is made to the teacher prior to the time named above, the seats of pupils of the first and second of the above classes shall be reserved until the end of the fifth day of the session, and those pupils who are qualified shall be transferred as if present.

4. Except in special cases, transfers from schools of a lower grade to those of a higher shall be made during the first week of September only, and those only shall be promoted whose attendance, conduct, and improvement shall have been satisfactory.

5. The number of pupils in any school shall not exceed sixty.

6. No pupil shall be received from one public school into another without a transfer ticket, a certificate of honorable dismissal, or satisfactory reasons for leaving the other; and no pupil shall be transferred from a school in one district into one of another, unless by the written consent of one member of the Sub-Board of each district.

PUPILS.

7. Good order and propriety of deportment, not only during school hours, but in coming to and leaving school, and cleanliness in person and attire, are expected from all. Pupils are required to keep all books clean, and the contents of desks neatly arranged; to enter and leave the room in a respectful manner, and without noise; and to quit the neighborhood of the school in a quiet and orderly manner immediately on being dismissed.

8. No pupil shall be allowed to throw pens, paper, or anything whatever on the floor; to mark, cut, scratch, chalk, or otherwise disfigure or injure any portion of the school-building or anything connected with it; to use tobacco in any form; to use a knife in school; to dance or play at any boisterous game within the school-room; to use any profane or indelicate language; to nickname any person; to throw stones or other missiles; to annoy or maltreat others; or do anything that may disturb the neighborhood or the school.

9. Continued disobedience or irregularity, frequent absence, tardiness, immoral conduct, or a neglect on the part of the parent or guardian to furnish the necessary school-books, unless satisfactorily explained, shall be sufficient ground for suspension or dismissal.

11. The seat of any pupil who shall be absent more than five consecutive school-days, from any cause, shall be marked forfeited; but the seats of pupils who are detained by sickness, or the presence of a contagious disease in the family, or who are absent by the written authority of a Trustee, shall be reserved for twenty consecutive school days, so that they may re-enter, without a ticket from a Trustee, at any time within the period named; and such pupils shall be reported as admitted by ticket, and their re-entries shall be noted on the record-book in the same manner that re-entries by tickets are noted; after twenty days, such pupils, when presenting tickets, shall have preference in admittance to school.

12. The absence of any pupil caused by suspension shall not be marked upon the daily record, and, in making up the monthly reports, shall not be included in the "aggregate number of days' absence."

13. No pupil who has been absent, or appears after the opening of school, shall be admitted without a note from the parent or guardian, giving the cause of absence or tardiness; and no pupil shall be allowed to depart before the appointed hour of leaving school, except in case of sickness, or for some pressing emergency; and the teacher in every case shall be the judge of the validity of the excuse. All notes of excuse shall be preserved until the close of the school year.

14. One or more lessons shall be assigned daily to be studied at home by pupils of suitable age.

15. For violent or pointed opposition to authority, a teacher may suspend a pupil for the time being, and shall immediately inform the parent and the Sub-Board. In all cases of suspension, pupils, if not restored by the Sub-Board within five days, shall be considered as dismissed, and shall be so entered on the annual register.

16. Pupils, whose parents or guardians are in indigent circumstances, may obtain the use of books, &c., on a written application, in such form as shall be prescribed by the Board, approved by the teacher of the school, and by two members of the Sub-Board; but in all cases such books shall be returned whenever the pupil shall leave the school. If they shall not be returned by any pupil, the teacher shall report the facts to the Sub-Board, and the pupil shall not be permitted again to enter any public school in the city.

17. No pupil who commences a special study will be permitted to discontinue it during the year without the consent of the Sub-Board, and the pupils in said studies shall be under the control of the teacher of the school.

24. Teachers shall keep record books and make such reports as shall be required by the Board, and they shall not be entitled to receive their pay or to be re-elected until they have fully complied with this rule. Immediately after the annual examination they shall deposit their record books in the office of the Superintendent, taking care to make and retain a list of the names of pupils on the rolls at the close of the year.

25. The necessary stationery, blanks, and supplies for public school purposes shall be furnished by the Treasurer or depositary upon requisition of the teacher, approved by a member of the Sub-Board.

26. The teachers shall attend to the physical education and comfort of the pupils under their care; make the ventilation and temperature of the school-rooms an especial object of attention, and take care that the windows in the rooms be opened for the free admission of air at recess, and that the temperature of the rooms be not higher than 68 degrees.

27. Reading newspapers, magazines &c., in the school-room, conversation for more than five minutes with other teachers or visitors in school hours, and the use of tobacco in any form in or about the school building, are prohibited.

28. Mild and conciliatory discipline is enjoined on all teachers, and the avoidance of corporal punishment, as far as may be, with a due regard to the necessity of obedience on the part of the pupil.

29. Teachers shall prevent, as far as possible, the pupils from gathering on the school premises before the hours for opening the school rooms; supervise their schools during the recesses; require the pupils to leave the premises immediately after the close of the school; and see that the doors of the school-houses and other houses attached thereto are locked, and the windows shut and fastened, every day after the close of school.

30. Teachers shall not be allowed to send their pupils on errands during school hours, except on urgent school business.

31. No teacher or other person shall be allowed to present any premium or gift to any scholar at the public distribution, except such as are permitted by vote of the Board or Sub-Board, and the number of prizes granted by the Board shall not be increased by any Sub-Board.

32. No subscription or contribution, for any purpose whatever, shall be introduced in any public school; and no advertisement shall be read to the pupils of any school, or posted upon the walls of any school building, or fences of the same, without permission of the Sub-Board.

33. The teacher of each school shall prepare, and place for convenient inspection by the Trustees, a programme of the exercises of each day during the week, specifying the length of time devoted to each study and recitation.

34. Teachers will give as much instruction as is practicable by means of the blackboard, prevent pupils from sitting too long in one position or without occupation, and frequently vary the school exercises, so as to awaken and fix attention.

35. The teacher of each school is accountable for the safekeeping of the furniture and other school property, the order and discipline of the pupils, and the execution of all rules and regulations of the Board and Sub-Boards.

36. Sub-assistants shall have charge, under the supervision of the teacher, of the record books of the grammar schools in which they are pupils, shall be employed to give instruction in any school during the temporary absence of the teacher when required by the Sub-Board, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to them.

37. Teachers are required to make themselves familiar with these regulations, and especially with the portion that relates to their own duties and to the instruction and discipline of their schools, and to see that they are faithfully observed.

45. An examination of the several schools shall be made before the close of each school year, under the direction of the General Board; and all pupils absenting themselves from such examination, without cause assigned, shall be reported in writing to the Sub-Board, and may be suspended or dismissed by the same.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

It is not expected that this course of study will prove to be, in every particular, perfectly adapted to the wants of our schools, and as experience shall discover defects they will be corrected. Nor is it supposed that every school will be able immediately to conform in all respects to the requirements of any grade: the various degrees of progress made by schools of the same nominal rank in different parts of the city, and even in the same district, make that impossible. But this variance indicates the necessity of making a nearer approximation to uniformity, and of specifying the amount of work to be accomplished in each year. For that purpose this course is adopted; and it is expected that every teacher will endeavor to conform to it as closely as possible, and with each successive class, more nearly to meet its demands.

As far as possible, the first and second years will be assigned to Primary; the third and fourth years to Secondary; the fifth, sixth, and seventh, respectively, to Third, Second, and First Intermediate; and eighth year and Advanced Course to Grammar Schools. It is desirable that there be but one grade in a school, especially an Intermediate; and, except in the Grammar Schools, there never should be more than two. Whenever there are two classes, each should belong to one of the established grades, and, subject to the limitations above suggested, required to perform its allotted work.

The written and oral examinations at the close of the year will be based upon the grade or grades of the school, not upon its nominal rank.

READING AND SPELLING.

The principal objects to be accomplished in teaching reading are, to prepare the pupils to read—first, with profit to themselves; second, with pleasure to others. That either result may be secured, it is essential that they be made to understand the subject read and the words used in presenting it. Teachers, therefore, should insist that their pupils not merely read each selection in the books, but explain it, and give in their own language the general idea. The words most likely to be misunderstood should be designated when the lessons are assigned, and the pupils required to learn to spell and define them, and give sentences illustrating the use of them.

In order that the idea when understood may be properly expressed by the reader, and so afford pleasure to the hearer, there should be careful and systematic training in correct pronunciation and distinct enunciation, by which may be called into due use the several muscles and organs required in speaking; and also instruction in proper and tasteful emphasis and modulation of the voice. In these exercises the guides will be the Introductory Treatise in the reading books and Monroe's Vocal Gymnastics.

But it should be steadily borne in mind that the former of these objects is by far the more important. Few are required to read for others, while all must do so for themselves. It is a mistake to confine the reading of a year to a few pieces, which are to be artistically delivered. So great a number should be practiced, that the pupils' familiarity with the language may be increased and their vocabulary enriched.

Most of the exercises in spelling should be written, in all grades above the second year. When oral spelling is practiced, great care should be exercised to secure correct pronunciation of the words and proper division into syllables.

ARITHMETIC.

To by far the greater part of those who leave our schools it is much more important that they be ready reckoners than that they be wordy analyzers. All their practice in numbers after they go out into the world is in making the simplest combinations of the ten digits. Skill in this most necessary art comes from long and frequent practice only. In teaching arithmetic in school, therefore, it should be the first object to make the pupil familiar with those simple operations in the four ground rules which make the tables given in the books, in order that the mention of two numbers may at once suggest the result of adding, subtracting, multiplying, or dividing, as the case may be. When asked the product of seven by nine, the mere question should suggest the answer, so that the scholar need not stop to repeat to himself the table, from "nine times one are nine" to "nine times seven are sixty-three;" or, when asked to add the same numbers, make use of his fingers as counters. The desired quickness of response can only be secured by many and frequent exercises, in which but one operation is involved in each question.

But while in this way the memory is to be stored and recollection quickened, care must be taken to prevent too great a reliance upon mere verbal memory in more complicated operations, and in repeating the words of rules and formulas of analysis. In the lower grades of schools, each step of every process is to be made distinct and clear, and in the higher grades every principle explained. Forms of analysis should embrace every part of the work, but be brief and pointed, avoiding all repetitions, and every word that would not add to precision of statement. It would be well to encourage pupils to discover processes new to them, which, while perhaps not absolutely so good as those given in the text-books, are better for the pupils, in that they represent independent thinking.

Generally, short methods are preferable to long, and those most used by men of business should be especially cultivated. In performing examples under the fundamental rules, the partial and final results only should be named, not the numbers from which they are derived: as in adding $7+3+9+8$, pupils should say, 10, 19, 27; not 7 and 3 are 10, &c.

The first lessons in arithmetic are to be given in the lowest grades, and are to be confined to numbers not exceeding ten. The idea of number should be carefully developed, one step at a time, and seldom without the use of objects. In all the grades objects should be used, as far as possible, in explaining and illustrating the new rules.

When a pupil can intelligently explain an operation, a failure to repeat the rule never should be considered an error.

HISTORY.

This subject is too frequently taught as if the lesson of each day were entirely disconnected from every other, and with too entire dependence upon the words of the text-book. Every possible effort must be made to avoid this evil. The connection between the different events related should be pointed out, and the character and influence of the actors considered. Every recitation should be conducted with reference to maps of the regions in which the events occurred, and the pupils instructed to draw them on paper and the blackboard. Frequent written reviews, both by topics and by abstracts in the form of tables, will be useful. In this study, as in geography, pupils should be encouraged to enliven the recitations by relating incidents learned from works other than the text-books.

GEOGRAPHY.

The course begins with the geography of our own city. Attention is to be called to its outline, as exhibited on the map, and the forms of relief. The points N., S., E., W., and the intermediate points, are to be fixed in the mind by frequent reference to prominent buildings. The numbered streets may represent meridians, and the lettered streets the equator and parallels. The meaning of mountain, valley, plain, watershed, river, cape, island, &c., may be illustrated by reference to the natural features of the vicinity; and by drawing them on the blackboard the methods of representing them by means of maps may be shown.

The next year introduces the study of globes, by which may be impressed upon the minds of the pupils correct ideas of the forms and motions of the earth, the varieties of climate and vegetation, and divisions into hemispheres; the positions of the poles and equator should be taught, and the relative situation of the oceans, continents, and grand divisions pointed out.

Following this are general lessons from maps of the hemispheres and the map of the United States, with reference to its physical features, and the climate, productions, and industries of each section, and locating the States, capitals, and principal cities.

In the fourth year commences the study of the text-books. Teachers should encourage the pupils to investigate for themselves, and obtain from books of travels and other sources information with which to enliven the recitations.

LANGUAGE.

Expertness in the use of words, the "tools of thought," can be secured only by constant practice, and every recitation should be made to contribute to this object. Pupils should generally be required to answer in complete sentences, and every error should be corrected. In the lower grades a part of every day should be devoted to writing compositions, which at first may be of but a single sentence, and always on topics within the comprehension of the pupils, and in which they are interested. Spontaneous expression of the thoughts, feelings, affections, and wishes of the children should be encouraged, and thus this exercise made as delightful to those engaged in it, as is conversation with sympathizing friends. The reason why writing compositions is so distasteful to many scholars is, that it generally is introduced so late in the school course, that they have reached that age when youthful diffidence has taken the place of childlike confidence, and they, conscious of inability to do properly what is required, are unable to think readily or write naturally. To avoid this difficulty, as soon as the child begins to think, he should be taught properly to express his thoughts. Therefore composition writing is to begin in the lowest grade, and continued throughout the entire course.

It will be found profitable to require pupils to change the forms of their sentences, substitute synonymous words, and in other ways, which will readily occur to the interested teacher, vary their methods of expression and enlarge their vocabulary.

The first lessons in grammar should, as far as possible, avoid technical terms; but one by one the names of the different parts of speech will be introduced and their uses and properties indicated, and the most obvious analysis of simple sentences practiced. This will prepare the way for the use of the text-books. To assist in forming a good style and inspiring a love for literature, teachers will find it profitable, as well as interesting, to call the attention of pupils to beautiful or otherwise striking passages in the selections contained in the reading books.

LESSONS ON OBJECTS AND NATURAL SCIENCES.

As opportunity offers and occasion requires, further instruction in the details of these lessons will be given. It would be well for all teachers to consider that no person can teach successfully what he does not know, and, therefore, it will be essential that those who are conscious of not understanding the subjects assigned, make special preparation for each lesson. In other branches, the ready memories of the pupils may enable a school conducted by a mere hearer of recitations to appear to advantage: in this, the apparent, as well as real success, will be in direct proportion to the intelligence and ambition of the teacher.

One hour each week is to be devoted to these studies, except in the Primary grades, when more time will be given to them, and the instruction should be made as practical as possible. Efforts should be made to awaken the curiosity and develop the perceptive faculties.

It will be observed that some of the topics prescribed in lower grades are repeated in higher. The later treatment of them, however, will be more in detail.

RECITATIONS.

Much in the substance of a recitation depends upon the manner of the one reciting. No pupil can be allowed to lean, lounge, kneel, or slouch when reciting. Every one should be required to rise and stand erect, and as gracefully as nature will permit, and remain in that position, facing the teacher, until he has finished; then he should take his seat in a becoming manner. The words should be distinctly spoken, and without mumbling. Uneasy movements of body or head, wandering eyes and listless looks, should not be tolerated.

Grace of carriage and command of the vocal organs may be cultivated by practice in the exercises given in Monroe's Vocal Gymnastics; but the confidence that conquers nervousness and makes the pupil appear at ease, can be imparted and increased only by kindness and encouragement on the part of the teacher.

In all the exercises of the school-room it should be constantly kept in mind, that ten minutes of cheerful, voluntary study is worth an hour of enforced, unwilling labor. It is of far more importance that the perceptive faculties and reasoning powers be cultivated, and that a love of scholarly investigation be inspired, than that page after page be committed to memory. That teacher will be most successful who exhibits the most intelligent thinkers, not the most ready and tenacious memorizers. A hint which will aid a pupil in working out a question for himself, will be worth more to him than the assistance that relieves him of labor.

Originality, not eccentricity, of thought and expression should be encouraged, and the pupil should be made to feel that it is appreciated. - Variety in the manner of conducting recitations will enliven them, and break up the routine frequently so dull, and excite interest by awakening curiosity. The judicious teacher will find that good will result from permitting the pupils to question one another.

Every recitation hour should be divided into three parts,—the first devoted to the review of previous lessons, the second to the subject of the day, and the third to explanation of that which is to follow.

Too many teachers sink the instructor in the detective, and devote their attention almost exclusively to the task of discovering how much each pupil has learned. While this work is necessary, it should not be made the only care, nor should the wants of the inattentive and shirks dictate the management of the school. Such a course strengthens them in their bad habits, and discourages the diligent and ambitious. Let the teacher begrudge every moment given to fault-finding; but never be too busy to encourage, assist, and praise honest efforts.
